HEAR WALLACE PLANS TO QUIT CABINET POST

Would Give Entire Time To Campaign; Marvin Jones Mentioned for Job.

ANTI-NEW DEAL REVOLT

Old Line Party Members Turn Against President; 1938 'Purges' Backfire.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Reports that Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace soon would resign to campaign actively for the Roosevelt - Wallace ticket circulated here today amid growing sentiment of anti-third term Democrats to bolt the party

Wallace, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, reportedly would be succeeded in the cabinet by Marvin Jones of the house agriculture committee.

President Roosevelt, apparently indifferent to the political developments, cruised down the Potomac river to rest up for his efforts to win another four years in the White House. He planned to return late today and then perhaps, tonight or tomorrow night, entrain for his home in Hyde Park N Y

A number of Democratic party leaders, including a group of prominent anti-New Dealers, appeared in agreement on not supporting Mr Roosevelt for a third term. But there was considerable difference on the question of whether to "walk" into Republican ranks under Wendell L. Willkie.

Vance C. McCormick, who as chairman of the party in 1916 directed Woodrow Wilson's re-election campaign, announced through his newspaper, the Harrisburg, Pa., Patriot, that he would support Willkie.

Sen. Ellison D. Smith (D. S C.) an intended victim of Mr. Roosevelt's 1938 political "purge," joined Sen. Edward R Burke, (D., Neb.) in refusing to back the president for re-election. Unlike Burke, however, he said he would not support Willkie

Stephen F. Chadwick , last year's national commander of the American Legion, son of a life-long Democratic judge in Washington state, announced he would support Willkie.

Burke was the first prominent

Hitler Making 'One More Appeal to Reason'

Declaring he felt "obliged to make one more appeal to reason to England," Fuehrer Adolf Hitler warned that the British empire would be destroyed if "England insists on continuing the fight." This Central Press radiophoto shows der fuehrer, indicated by arrow, receiving the outstretched-arm salute of high Nazi officials as he concluded his address to the reichstag in the Kroll opera house, Berlin.

Great Britain And Axis Foes Squared Away

Fascist Plans for Big Mediterranean Offensive With Spain Reported In Timing With Hitler Blitzkrieg Invasion of British Isles.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(UP)—German bombing planes struck at the British Isles and launched a lightning attack on a south England harbor today as a grim reminder of Adolf Hitler's demand for submission or destruction. Seventeen Nazi planes, apparently Dorniers, escorted by Messerschmitt fighting craft, smashed in blitzkrieg fashion at ships anchored in the harbor this afternoon.

(By United Press)

Great Britain and the Axis powers squared off today for a battle to victory or destruction.

Rome heard reports of Fascist plans for a great Mediterranean offensive in which Spain would aid an attack on the British stronghold of Gibraltar.

Berlin reported that Nazis were denouncing as "shameful" the British defiance of Adolf Hitler's demand for surrender on threat of an annihilating blitzkrieg attack for which all is in readiness.

London reacted coldly to the Nazi fuehrer's call for an end to the war on his own terms and speeded up defense preparations with the cry: "Let them come!"

There was no doubting that they would come and probably soon. German bombers swarmed over the English channel coast again today and the German high command said that they had successfully attacked shipping, harbors, power stations and other objectives, shooting down 21 British planes

Among the German raiders were bombers, Stuka dive bombers and fighters The British government reported that bombs had been dropped on southeast and southwest Scotland and northeast, southeast and southwest England and that one German plane had been shot down by a British fighter.

Great Britain answered the Hitler warning by naming a new commander-in-chief, a veteran fighting against the Germans in France, to head the defending armies. Lieut Gen. Sir Alan Brooke, 57 assumed command of the home front. His choice was dictated by the belief that the imminence of the German invasion required at the head of the armies a man who had proved his ability in actual combat. Brooke commanded the second army corps of the British expeditionary force and had played an important part in the mechanization of the army. His thorough knowledge of this subject won him the nickname of "Wizard."

His appointment was the only official answer to Hitler, but there was no indication anywhere that any Briton favored a suit for peace on Nazi terms.

Nazi newspapers warned the British people again that they faced the "terrible choice" of subjecting themselves to the worst slaughter in history unless they came to terms with Hitler. They called Hitler's speech a "sincere appeal to reason," pointed to the fates of Rotterdam and Warsaw as indications of what Great Britain might expect.

The German viewpoint was that

Three Counties Wait Robber Gang Custody

Nine Mansfielders Face Charges of Highway Robbery, Breaking and Entering In Series of Crimes.

Confessing to participation in a series of robberies, nine Mansfielders, members of an alleged robber gang held in city jail, today faced charges of highway robbery and breaking and entering to be preferred by authorities of three counties.

The youths, all between the ages of 19 and 23, were rounded up Thursday afternoon and yesterday morning by Detectives Lee J. Remy and O. M. Krupp and Sheriff E P. Long.

Detectives announced today they had obtained signed confessions from all nine, admitting the holdup of three gasoline filling stations, three of which are in Richland county.

Authorities from Franklin, Huron and Wayne counties came to Mansfield last night to question the youths concerning

DEPORTATION

Hearing for Dutch Sailors Completed at Detroit.

DETROIT—(UP)—A deportation hearing for 12 Dutch sailors of the Prins Willem II was completed here late yesterday.

Testimony and evidence in the case was to be sent to Washington for a decision, expected in about a month according to John L. Zurbrick, Detroit immigration inspector.

The sailors, brought here from Sandusky, O., after they refused to sail to a Canadian port with the ship, will be held in immigration detention quarters here pending the decision.

CHILD SAVED

Firemen Fight Way Through Crib With Hacksaws.

NEW YORK —(UP)— Two-year-old Hannah Shefulsky wedged her head between the iron rails of her crib when her doll fell to the floor. It took a police emergency squad equipped with hacksaws to free her—uninjured.

LUMBER BURNS

MT. VERNON—(UP)—The loss caused by flames which destroyed the Fred C. Bishop lumber yard at nearby Centerburg was estimated by the owner today at more than $10,000

MAPS CHANGES

Election Board Works on House Numbering Problem.

The Richland county election board at a session last night mapped plans for revising city registration lists to comply with the new house numbering set-up before the November election.

Presiding judges at each of the city voting booths will be called in for instructions from the board within the next few weeks and the judges will be asked to make the changes on the registration cards at the booths election day.

Voters probably will be asked to report changes in their house numbers when they go to the polls to vote in November, Walter Underwood, deputy election board clerk, said.

The board urged the 152 Democratic and Republican central committeemen in the county to make their recommendations for two judges and a clerk immediately.

BILL SIGNED

President Approves Expansion for Two-Ocean Navy.

WASHINGTON —(UP)— President Roosevelt has signed into law a bill authorizing a $4,500,000,000 expansion of the navy designed to give the United States a "two ocean" fleet capable of meeting any possible hostile combination

The White House announced the signing today, while Mr. Roosevelt was cruising on the Potomac river.

CITY SWELTERS IN 90 DEGREES

Mercury Hits High for Year and Weatherman Indicates It'll Be Still Warmer.

The weather caught up with the season today in Mansfield and Ohio temperatures in the 90's were predicted for the second consecutive day in the state.

Yesterday thermometers in this area hit the 90 mark for the first time this year, and although they dropped to 61 during the night, the mercury was up to 81 at 8:30 p. m. today and was 85 at noon, and threatening to go considerably higher under the afternoon sun.

The first real hot weather of the year scorched the nation from west to east coasts yesterday and was responsible for at least one death in Ohio. Raymond D. Callaway, 54, Pickaway farmer, suffered a heat stroke and fell beneath the wheels of the wagon he was operating while threshing.

The highest temperatures in the state were at Springfield and Sandusky where thermometers reached 96 degrees. Columbus recorded a temperature of 94.

The weather bureau reported temperatures considerably above normal from the Rocky mountains to the Atlantic coast high temperatures were reported draining the reserve water supply of moisture from the spring wheat and corn belts which a is a factor in the advance in the price of wheat and

NAB FUGITIVE

Missouri State Troopers Catch Iowa Desperado.

ATCHISON, Kan. —(UP)— Ivan Sullivan, one of the three desperadoes who escaped from the Iowa State prison last month, was captured three miles east of here on a Missouri highway today.

Missouri state troopers made the arrest. They said Sullivan, who had eluded capture late yesterday at Marysville, and again here early today, offered no resistance.

Hunger Strike of Alcatraz Prison Inmates Goes on

SAN FRANCISCO —(INS)— The hunger strike of the nation's most desperate felons in Alcatraz prison entered its sixth day today with Warden James A. Johnson admittedly baffled by the strange demonstration.

"It's like nothing I ever heard of in a prison before," the warden said. "It's like passive resistance in India."

Johnson said the hunger strike was still limited to about 100 men who "just won't eat or barely touch their food."

The warden could ascribe no motive for the demonstration, and said a search was in progress for the "Gandhi" behind the silent rebellion which began in the prison mess hall at breakfast last Monday morning.

Johnson said there had been no violence but that guards were on the alert for any eventuality.

VOTE CHANGES

New York State Shifts on Willkie Nomination.

NEW YORK—(INS)—The nomination of Wendell L. Willkie by the Republicans has sent G. O. P. voting sentiment in the New York state into the lead for the first time since the 1932 election, according to the latest Gallup poll.

A cross-section of voters' preferences, throughout the state, taken after Willkie's nomination but before the Democrats convened at Chicago, revealed the following:

For Willkie .....51 per cent
For Roosevelt .....49 per cent

Dr. George Gallup, director of the survey, reported that last March 53 per cent of voters declared themselves for the Democrats, 47 per cent for Republicans

ROBBED IN CHURCH

COLUMBUS —(UP)— A purse containing $16 and belonging to Miss Josephine Starr was stolen yesterday while she was praying at the altar of St Joseph's Catholic cathedral. She had left the purse in a rear pew.

BOY, 14, HIT BY STRAY BULLET

Woodland Avenue Youth Shot In Hip While Walking Near North Lake Park.

Sheriff E. P. Long threatened today to confiscate rifles used by boys for promiscuous target practice after Billy Long, 14, 115 Woodland avenue, was accidently shot in the hip last night near North Lake park.

Officers were unable to find the person who fired the shot, but the sheriff said he was convinced it was the result of careless target shooting which has brought a number of complaints in recent weeks.

The Long youth was walking along the B and O. tracks just north of the park about 8 p. m. yesterday when the bullet passed completely through his left hip. He was treated by a physician. His wound was not believed serious.

"Boys have already been warned about shooting in thickly populated sections and without regard for life, and we are going to start bringing them into court and taking their guns away from them if this thing continues," the sheriff said

On a number of occasions in the past month, residents near the city have reported narrowly escaping injury from stray rifle bullets, while in some cases windows were broken by the bullets

Sheriff Long and his deputies have located several of the youths and warned them.

Widow of Slain Physician Held For Questioning

AKRON —(UP)— Mrs Ruby C Miller, 32 widow of Dr Malcolm Dean Miller who was slain in his office two weeks ago was in police custody today "for investigation," according to Chief of Detectives Verne Cross

The 63-year-old physician was shot to death on the evening of July 5 by an unidentified man who wore a strip of adhesive tape over his upper lip. Mrs. Miller was in the office when the stranger entered but said she fled when he threatened to shoot her husband.

Cross refused to comment on details of the information being sought from Mrs. Miller.

Police have found only scanty clues to the murder in their investigation to date. Several persons have been questioned as possible suspects and then released. Mrs Miller has been unable to ascribe a motive for the killing

CYCLIST KILLED

COLUMBUS —(UP)— Ralph Nicodemus, male cyclist, died into a ditch yesterday fatally injuring the 26-year-old Columbus resident.

CAPTURED: Italian Gunners Taken By British In Africa

By JAN YINDRICH
(UP Staff Correspondent)

ON THE EGYPTIAN-LIBYAN FRONTIER—(By Courier to Cairo)—Crack mechanized British cavalry knocked out 11 Italian tanks at dawn today as they tried to break through a ring of fire to take food, water, ammunition and supplies to 1,000 Italians besieged in wrecked Fort Capuzzo.

Pursuing their tactics in a merciless eight-day siege, the British armored units had pounced on the remnants of a big Italian convoy which had previously been attacked by artillery

The British over-ran seven Italian guns and captured 12 gunners. They walked the gunners back into Egypt, ahead of the British tanks, under a ram of fire from Italian artillery and machine guns

I talked to the prisoners.

They seemed happy enough but said they were gunners escorting the truck convoy, and hence knew nothing of conditions in the fort.

They said that crack non-African Italian units were being used for the Fort Capuzzo operations.

Today's operation, I am informed, brings the total of Italian trucks destroyed to 50 in this sector and the number of Italian

HATRED: Writer Says Class Warfare Brought France Down

(EDITOR'S NOTE Kenneth Downs, chief of the International News Service bureau in Paris today reveals what in his opinion actually ate away the heart of France and ended in her downfall This is the last of a series of two articles.)

By KENNETH DOWNS

NEW YORK—(INS)—The ancient village square presented a colorful scene. All the villagers and the ruddy-faced peasants were dressed in their sober, Sunday-best black. Breton fishermen in their black-red denim mingled in the throng

This was a big occasion. For not only was it the national fete day, for which Brittany is famous, it was by pure coincidence the day on which the "Tour de France," the famous bicycle race which circled the nation each year and which was by far the most important of all French sports events, was to pass through the village

It was July 14, 1939 The war clouds were rolling up fast in the east then and every man and woman there knew it down in his heart, but like their compatriots everywhere they resolutely turned their eyes away from it to concentrate on the pleasures at hand

We had driven in from the seaside resort of Labaule to watch the race come by. As we sat at a cafe terrace, watching the scene in the square and sipping the cider

"Ha," exclaimed my friend, the Vicomte de M——, "it rains. Good. This is the day of the proletariat and it will be spoiled. The canaille will get a wetting."

We laughed at the vicomte's cynical joke. But it was not just a joke He was an ardent rightist,

'Tis Harvest Time—Sunday's N-J Portrays It

From amber waves of grain, that help to make America "the beautiful," through the rewarding toil of harvest and the intricate process of modern milling, the Sunday edition of The News-Journal brings you the story of wheat, tomorrow, in two full pages of pictures and stories

To one of the pages Virgil A. Stanfield brings the story of Richland county in harvest time. On the other, Jane Williams inscribes the record of these present busy days at the Hanley mills where more than a half million bushels of wheat will become quality flour this summer and fall. Both articles are illustrated with News-Journal photographs.

The News-Journal photographer also takes you out for an afternoon at the Westbrook Country club swimming pool where a half-dozen Mansfield bathing beauties point out just how fine the water is

Beginning a new series the Sunday edition presents two interesting old pictures of Mansfield police when handlebar mustaches were standard equipment and a group of local blades when North Lake park was THE place to spend a Sunday afternoon

Harold Valentine and his camera come back from the "city farm" of R. O. Davies with another informative article of a city man who makes agriculture his hobby. . . . The Dionne Quintuplets frolic in the country. . . . Robert Flohr tells you how the European war has affected mail leaving the local post-office. . . . The woman's page offers some new suggestions for summer games to entertain your guests.

It looks like August is going to rival June as a wedding month in Mansfield this year and the society page introduces you to some of the brides-elect for the month

Besides latest sports dope you'll find the colored comics cross-quiz puzzle, fiction, political comment from both local and national angles and

Hull Campaigns Once More for American Solidarity

NATIONS SEEK WAY TO AVOID WAR DANGERS

Argentina Serves Notice It Will Protect Markets In Europe.

HAVANA, Cuba—(U.P.)—United States Secretary of State Cordell Hull, after an absence of 12 years, set foot on Cuban soil today to campaign once again for American solidarity.

Hull and members of the United States' delegation to the inter-American conference arrived on the liner Florida, which left Miami last night.

Hull first came to Cuba in 1898 as captain of a company of Tennessee riflemen to help drive the Spanish from this, their last stronghold in the western hemisphere.

The Cordell Hull of those days, was a tall, lean, bemoustached mountaineer with a huge six-shooter strapped to his side. His marksmanship and poker playing were the talk of the army.

Hull today has ideas and diplomacy for his big weapons in the fight to keep the western hemisphere free from European wars, and totalitarian economic penetration.

A conference of the foreign ministers of the 21 republics begins tomorrow, when President Laredo Bru of Cuba welcomes the assembled delegates.

The conference was called by the United States to seek a solution through united action of the economic and military problems confronting the new world peoples as a result of old world wars.

Upon the shoulders of Hull rests much responsibility for the success or failure of what is regarded as the most important inter-American conference in history.

Latin American countries, some of them already under pressure from totalitarian economics, are looking to Hull for a means to maintain their freedom of action.

Reports from the United States indicated that the first subject for discussion here will be the proposal that the 21 republics set up a joint protectorate over the Dutch and French possessions in this hemisphere.

Little opposition is expected to this proposal, except possibly from Argentina, which has served notice it will refuse to join any action calculated to injure Argentina's European markets now or after the war.

Another phase of the discussion will center on the United States' proposal for a cartel arrangement, by which the Americas will pool their exportable surpluses to maintain economic independence in this hemisphere.

2 Judges to Talk At Annual Picnic Of GOP Women

House Lootings Continue, 3 More Entered

THIEVES SCARED AWAY FROM TWO OTHER PLACES

New Outbreak of Robberies Increases 3-Week List to 22; Auto Stolen.

Police today were investigating three new house robberies.

All were reported within the past 24 hours and boosted to 22 the number of unsolved residence lootings reported during the past three weeks.

Thieves were frightened away from two other residences last night while an automobile was reported stolen and three other cars ransacked.

C. H. Eller, 91 East Second street, told police that a $12 table model radio was stolen from his home last night while the family was eating dinner in the kitchen.

Mrs. Rose Hedges, 191 West Third street, reported the theft of $3 from her apartment, and John Gasper, 94 Lida street, said an $8 electric iron was stolen from his home. In both cases, doors were left unlocked, police said.

Police said they were called to the vicinity of West Fourth street and Weldon avenue at 2:30 a. m. today to search for a man who attempted to enter a home in that vicinity.

Routs Gas Thieves.

Frank R. Stahl, 86 Dawson avenue, reported that he had routed gas thieves who attempted to drain the tank of his automobile at the rear of his home.

Officers said the thieves fled leaving behind a can and hose.

Theft of his automobile from West Second street, between North Walnut and North Mulberry streets, was reported by Henry Baeus, R. D. 1, Greenwich.

Roy Bush, 39 Vennum avenue, told officers that three cars, two parked in the driveway and one in front of his home were ransacked last night and a bunch of keys and a bathroom fixture were stolen.

GET DIPLOMAS

14 From Mansfield District Honored at Lakeside.

Fourteen young people from Mansfield and nearby towns were among 32 from the Norwalk and Mansfield districts of the North-East Ohio conference of the Methodist church, to receive diplomas at the conclusion of the Senior High Institute at Lakeside today.

Diplomas went to these young people, marking the completion of a three-year course in religious and social education, sponsored by the Methodist church.

Those who received diplomas from Mansfield are Jean Buell, Eleanor Coe, Lester Flegal, Robert Hostetler, Leona Hout, William Maxwell and Eileen Watkins. Others are Paul Chaifant of Willard; Barbara Levering and Marjorie Lockhard of Mt. Vernon; Luella and John McCutcheon and Louis Shaffer of Cardington and Frances Stengel of Ontario.

WEST VIRGINIA PARTY BARRED

Prohibitionists Kept Off of Election Slate.

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—(U.P.)—The Prohibition party today was denied a place on West Virginia's November general election ballot because it failed to receive one per cent of the gubernatorial vote cast in 1936.

Secretary of State William S. O'Brien informed John W. MacDonald of Weirton, the party's candidate for U. S. senator, that the Prohibitionists polled only 924 votes of the total of 832,484 and, therefore, could not qualify as a political party under the law.

YOUTH FACING FRAUD CHARGE

Although Jerry Wilt, 21, held in the county jail on a charge of intent to defraud, is wanted by police in Saginaw, Mich., Sheriff E. P. Long said today he would not turn Wilt over to authorities there until his case has been heard in Richland county common pleas court.

Wilt, who gave Ashland as his address, is held for the grand jury on a charge of obtaining a quantity of fireworks by representing himself as a fireworks dealer. His case will go before the grand jury on July 30.

Saginaw police, who hold a felony warrant against Wilt, sought to extradite him.

Up and Down the Street

The polo field at Raemelton farm serves a new purpose these summer evenings. The drum and bugle corps of McVey Post are doing their drill practice there preparatory to going to Toledo next month to take part in the American Legion state convention. The team will not enter the competitive drills, however. Hollis Moorhead is drilling them in their "squads right and left." There are now 40 men in the corps and the two drum majorettes, Jean Schill and Betty Wehinger. Donald S. Black, owner of Raemelton farm, recently gave the corps permission to rehearse on the secluded polo field where the novices won't be made self conscious by spectators.

With fewer vacancies to fill in the Mansfield schools teaching staff this year than in any summer in the past several years, Supt. W. L. Miller has decided that teachers like their jobs here. The teaching turnover this year was not more than three per cent of the total. "It looks like the only way some of the girls will lose their jobs is for them to get married," Miller said.

State Highway Patrolman W. C. Smith who takes a good deal of ribbing about his short stature was the target of a new assault today. A fellow officer claims he found Smith in the barber chair the other day and of all things—he was reading a "super-man" comic book. So fellow officers have been asking Smith these days if he was seeking "inspiration."

Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Sherrard and daughter, Mary Joan, Andover road, returned last night from a two weeks fishing jaunt into northern Canada, and they brought back 175 pounds of fish, including 100 pounds of lake trout. They went as far north as Cochrane, Ont., not far from Hudson Bay. Sherrard has a refrigerator compartment built into the back end of his trailer which carries 200 pounds of ice. He said today that he, like all other Mansfield vacationists in Canada, encountered no difficulty in getting back into the United States.

PRESS SAYS FAREWELL TO JIM FARLEY UNTIL HE HEADS YANKS

CHICAGO—(INS)—"Good-bye and good luck, Jim," was the tenor of a "farewell" reception given by the press to James A. Farley, retiring chairman of the Democratic national committee, before he returned today to New York to wind up his political affairs preparatory to entering business.

It was an unusual, straight-from-the-heart tribute to Farley who has grown in the esteem of the press during the convention, if that were possible. They gave him several presents, including a watch, a baseball and a first baseman's hit. But the big thing was the affection they showed toward Farley and the manner in which he showed his appreciation.

* * *

Many of the newspaper men and editors delayed their departure for home to be present at the "farewell" to Farley. It was a sincere farewell, too, and "Jim" knew it. No man in public life could have drawn such a reception from Washington's correspondents, New York reporters and the chief political writers of the newspapers of America.

* * *

They said nice things to "Jim," and "Jim" made quite a speech himself, mostly "off the record" but straight from the heart. Here was a man leaving the game of politics, which he admits he loves, but he left knowing the press was behind him 100 per cent in their well wishes for his future.

Farley probably is soon to take over the job of heading the New York American league baseball club, but he didn't say much about that. He did say he always has been an "American league fan" and he made it clear the door would always be "wide open" for the newspaper men who, he said, never violated his confidence.

The job of running the Yankees and its "farm" system will be a "cinch" for Farley, whose middle name is work. He confided to the press that he is one of those "saps" who get up every morning at 7:30 a. m. looking for something to do. He will be perfectly at home in a box back of third base and giving out interviews with the sports writers, with whom he previously had contact when he was chairman of the New York State Boxing commission.

FACES CHARGE

Former CCC Employe Accused In Child Molesting.

Junior T. Butcher, 45 of 109 East Fifth street, was held for juvenile court action today under a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a five-year-old girl Wednesday night at her home at 11½ East Fifth street.

A former CCC camp employe at Mohican State park, Butcher admitted being with the child in the house but denied attempting to assault her.

The contributing charge was filed by Prosecutor G. W. Marriott who said there was nothing to indicate Butcher had attempted to attack the child.

Butcher fled from the house when the child's mother, Mrs. George Winbigler, came into the hallway and found him with the girl.

Not That It Matters

Yeah, Tradition Sure Is A Funny Thing; an Orchid To the Traffic Surveyors

—By JANE WILLIAMS

JUST as the Republican convention broke with party tradition three weeks ago to nominate a Democrat for its presidential standard bearer, so the Democratic convention this week thumbed its nose at an American tradition established 150 years ago. And, as though that were not enough, nominated a former Republican for vice president.

Funny goings on, it seems. And yet, fully in keeping with the unrest and the unstability of our times. Everything American has been flouted sometime in the past few weeks. Tradition is merely that which someone else set up in years past. The ban against a third term was established by George Washington, who believed, that no matter what the circumstances were, it was a grave infringement against democracy for a man to perpetuate himself as president. Washington refused a third term in 1796 when American relations with France were strained and conditions in Europe chaotic. He believed that there were other men in his party as capable as himself of handling the affairs of the nation.

* * *

THEN came Thomas Jefferson who, in 1808 refused a third term even though his constituents begged him to run for the presidency again. He refused because he believed a third term violated a basic democratic principle. And thus it became a tradition followed by such distinguished Democrats as Madison, Monroe and Jackson; a policy which the party has not only adhered to itself, but has vehemently insisted that Republicans follow.

All of this was cast to the wind Thursday night when the New Deal party drafted its "determined volunteer," who months ago began moving out of his way the men who might block his path to a third term.

But the final chapter of this precedent-shattering story will not be written by Mr. Roosevelt, no matter how determined he may be. It will be written by the voters of America. And if there are enough people in America today who are willing to say: "To hell with all of the guide posts of the past and with all tradition—we'll go our own way and set our own precedents", then that's the way it should be.

This is a democracy, and the majority—regardless of who makes up that majority—rules.

THE most dramatic moment of the convention broadcast—and the only one—so far as I am concerned, was that one in which the gallery loudly booed and hissed the name and precepts of Thomas Jefferson. Times HAVE changed, haven't they?

It was that moment when white-haired, dignified Carter Glass of Virginia, reminded them that "only three hours before his death Thomas Jefferson appealed to the party he established never to nominate a man for a third term." Boos and hisses drowned out the voice of the distinguished senator.

Probably the galleryites were under the impression that Thomas Jefferson was another upstart who wanted to take the candidacy away from Mr. Roosevelt.

OUT in Hollywood this week the Dies committee was said to be hearing testimony anent the Communistic activities of top ranking stars. A former member of the Communist party vowed that Hollywood stars practically supported the party in California and honored the standard bearer, Earl Browder.

We've heard this sort of talk about the stars for a long time now. Either it is true or it isn't. If it isn't they deserve to have the stigma lifted once and for all time. If it is true, then American movie goers have a right to know the names of those who are so eager to change the American way for the Russian way of living, —and to act accordingly.

THE report on Mansfield's traffic problems, made in a survey by a citizens committee and completed last Saturday, seemed to me to be as thorough and comprehensive a piece of work as any committee could possibly do. It constitutes a real community service, and if the Chamber of Commerce is still handing out its "outstanding citizen of the year" medals, could I nominate Lewis Hartman, chairman of the Citizens traffic committee?

A determined opponent of parking meters when they were first proposed, I am now just as enthusiastic a supporter of the plan to try them out for a year or two. Since it will cost us nothing to install them, and we can pay for them on the installment plan out of funds collected by them, why not give them a try? This much I know; in every town where there are parking meters, you can always find a place to park.

The plan comes up for a third and final reading at the next session of City council on Aug. 6. I think your councilman would appreciate it if you would call him and express your opinion.

I WISH I had learned to operate a steam shovel instead of newspapering. Then I could have operated that fascinating piece of machinery on West Fourth street instead of merely standing wistfully on the curb. I'll bet the operator has more skill and dexterity in handling that crane and shovel than Elsa Maxwell has with a parfait spoon.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—The camera has taken a sedative. It's calming down. It's shaking off the jitters. In fact, it's so calm that it's standing still—which is practically revolutionary. "Reactionary" would be a better word, for in standing still it is going back to the habit it formed of necessity in pioneer film times.

For, once upon a time, the moving picture camera never moved. It stood on a tripod and aimed its lenses in one direction, and the actors moved in front of it. If they moved too far, they were "out of the scene" and they had to move back to get in again.

Then the camera began pivoting on its tripod, began to look around from side to side. Then it limbered up some more and climbed on a truck or "dolly." This permitted it to travel a little, to move up close to the actors and move away from them without "breaking" the scene or cutting.

After a while a "dolly" wasn't enough of a trick. The camera called for and got a crane. This allowed it not only to move forward and back, but to sweep down on or away from a close-up.

* * *

Directors, esp cially the imports from Europe, espoused the pittery camera and vied with each other in obtaining trick effects. The camera developed "monkey blood" and swung from ceilings, stood on its head, and climbed rafters. It went on a spree, and then talkies brought the morning after.

The pitter camera had to be enclosed in a "sweatbox" to deaden its operating sounds. Actors worked and perspired in tiny, stuffy sets, practically stood still directly under microphones so their voices could be recorded. This lasted nearly two years, until the engineers began to take the motors out of sound and [illegible] it [illegible] outdoors again. It was [illegible] long before the microphone, as well as the camera, was traveling.

Rouben Mamoulian had himself a dolly spree on his first picture, "Applause." He made that camera and mike wander down and up corridors and streets and rooms until the audience got fairly dizzy trying to keep up with it.

* * *

Lately John Ford made a picture called "The Grapes of Wrath." His chief cameraman was Gregg Toland. Together they slipped the camera a powder; they made it stand still through most of the footage. More recently they made together a picture called "The Long Voyage Home." They doubled the powder. The picture has no "dolly" or crane shots. They "panned" only when strictly necessary. They let the characters do the moving while the camera stood still.

Toland says the method helps to keep audience attention on the story and characters and away from movie mechanics. It keeps the camera out of the scene, gives better "composition," eliminates softness and blurring, gives clear definition and character to actors' faces.

It also saves time, he says.

And time saves money, and—for that reason if no other—the cameras of Hollywood may be expected to calm down even further in the near future.

2 HISTORICAL NOVELS ON NEW LIBRARY LIST

One Deals With Pre-Civil War Days, Other With French Revolutionary War.

Two historical novels, one dealing with pre-Civil war days in the South, and the other with the Revolutionary days in France, head the list of new fiction at the Mansfield Public library this week. Included in the new nonfiction are several volumes on current international topics.

FOLLOW THE DRINKING GOURD by Frances Gaither is a story of pre-Civil war days in Alabama. When Mas John Austen found his Georgia plantation wearing out, he bought a tract of land in Alabama, leaving some Negroes and an overseer to farm the new property. The book describes the misfortunes which befell the crops and the workers on the new plantation.

HEROIC DUST by Theodora Dehon is a historical novel of the Catholic-Royalist uprising against the French revolution, called the Chouan revolt. This story, whose young hero and heroine were real people, opens in Normandy in 1792.

THE CRADLE BUILDER by Walter Schoenstedt tells the story of a young German exile who married a Vermont girl and learned to adjust himself to a strange land.

Other fiction: FOREVER WILT THOU LOVE by Lewisohn. REJECTED GUEST by Aldington, BAMBI'S CHILDREN by Salten.

Three recent books deal with current international topics. HITLER'S GERMANY: THE NAZI BACKGROUND TO WAR by Karl Loewenstein explains the present Nazi military succession by the fact that the Third Reich was a war government from the beginning. WHAT GERMANY FORGOT by James Thomson Shotwell points out that Germany has too long accepted war as the instrument of the nation's policy and justified its costs and sacrifices as a normal process of European political evolution. TURKEY AT THE STRAITS by James T. Shotwell and Francis Deak furnishes a short history of the control over the Straits of Bosporus which Turkey now enjoys.

AMERICANS ALL OVER by Jerome Beatty is the result of a reportorial assignment from the editor of the Reader's Digest. Beatty was asked to find and interview ten or twelve American men and women located in all parts of the world who seemed to be doing important, exciting things.

HOLLYWOOD SAGA by William C. DeMille is the story of moving picture development from 1914 to 1934. Mr. DeMille, brother of the more famous Cecil B. adds a few autobiographical touches to the exciting and fascinating history of the film capital.

Other non-fiction: BENJAMIN FRANKLIN'S LIBRARY: A SHORT ACCOUNT OF THE LIBRARY COMPANY OF PHILADELPHIA by Gray; RADIO WRITING by Wylie; GIVING YOUR MIND AND BODY A CHANCE by Croft; FREEDOM AND CULTURE by John Dewey; CAPITALISM THE CREATOR: THE ECONOMIC FOUNDATIONS OF MODERN INDUSTRIAL SOCIETY by Snyder; HEALTH AT FIFTY edited by Robey; BOOK OF THE PIGEON by Naether; NORTH CAPE by Ommanney; FOREVER THE FARM by Rawson; PIONEER LIFE IN WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA by Wright and Corbett; CAVALCADE OF THE RAILS by Morse.

Books For Children

• • •

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

Stories of modern boys and girls are eagerly sought by readers of the same age. These two books for junior and senior high school readers could be taking place this summer and next winter in any part of our country.

FAIR ADVENTURE, by Elizabeth Janet Gray—Page MacNeil was the daughter of a college professor and the youngest of her family. Having graduated with honors from high school she prepared for the scholarship examinations in a northern art school for girls, but she failed to earn the scholarship. The rest of her summer is spent much as any girl would like to spend a summer. She took part in a summer school play, had picnics and double dates, painted pictures, and vacationed with her father. There is rollicking fun in every chapter.

SHATTUCK CADET, by B. J. Chute—The title tells the story. It is a picture of a term in a military school in Minnesota. All the boys are real boys, interested in sports, uniforms, and the Crack squad. Most of the trouble is caused by the one boy who believed strongly in military discipline.

WISELY CHOSEN.

PHILADELPHIA —(UP)— A Philadelphia high school teacher has discovered that a porcelain blue-agate-baize chocolate pot which he purchased at an auction 20 years ago for 75 cents, formerly belonged to Emperor Napoleon III of France. Thaddeus Gorecki said he found the pot, which is covered with gold ivy leaves, while attending an auction at the Philadelphia Art Galleries

Hitler had implicitly invited Britain to come to terms. It also was believed that the role of Italy in the "blitzkrieg" to come figured prominently in discussions scheduled among Hitler and his foreign minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, and the Italian foreign minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano, who leaves Berlin for Rome tonight.

Vatican Studies Hitler's Speech

VATICAN CITY—(U.P.)—A semi-official Vatican news bulletin indicated today that authoritative Vatican quarters believe Adolf Hitler's speech to the Reichstag yesterday gives Great Britain opportunity to ask what Germany's peace terms might be.

Authoritative Vatican quarters were represented as believing that British action in at least inquiring about German peace terms might prevent clashes leading to the destruction of one or both nations.

"It is noted that the fuehrer, although speaking as a conqueror, again explained that he never wanted the destruction of the British empire," the news bulletin said.

"This might offer an occasion for Britain to ask what Hitler believes might make possible avoidance of a new clash which would lead to destruction of one of the two empires — a destruction that Hitler himself affirms prophetically must be, in case of prosecution of the war, that of the British empire."

High Vatican quarters, it was understood, were examining the text of Hitler's speech with especial concern for possible avenues leading to an end of hostilities.

Warns Bombers Can Raid United States

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Maj. Thomas R. Phillips, army anti-aircraft expert warned today that modern bombers can raid the United States and that immediate steps must be taken to counteract the danger.

Writing in the current issue of the publication, Army Ordinance, Phillips said that the speed of modern warplanes, carrying out their deadly bombing missions at night, greatly increases defense problems.

He emphasized that defenses against night raids are complicated by difficulty in illuminating fast-flying, high-altitude bombers so that guns on the ground can be trained on them. Likewise, he noted, interceptor planes must have advance warning in time to take off and reach the raiders before they can strike.

Aircraft warning networks, operating on a 24 hour basis, should be established at least 200 miles away from potential bombing targets in order to make possible an alarm of approaching aircraft, he said. Otherwise, defense planes might be unable to reach sufficient altitude to fight off attackers before the latter drop their bombs.

MARK SITE.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah — (U.P.) —A special marker has been placed on a downtown Salt Lake City street corner to mark the site of the first Latter-Day Saints church Sunday school. The school was founded Dec. 8, 1849, by Richard Ballantyne in an adobe cabin. Now there are 30,000 teachers and 350,000 in Mormon Sunday schools.

He Wanted FDR--And How

If you heard the broadcast of the Roosevelt demonstration the night he was nominated in Chicago, you presumed that all those amplified statements of "Illinois wants Roosevelt," "New York wants Roosevelt," etc., emanated from the delegations. But not so. For Tommy Garry, superintendent of sewers for the city of Chicago was responsible for all the frenzied "Roosevelt calls." Garry is said to have been planted in the convention hall for the purpose.

the holdups, one in West Salem, one in Wakeman and the other in Bexley, east of Columbus.

Two of the youths admitted participation in the stickup near Columbus in which they said they obtained $5.

Six others said they were in the holdup at Wakeman Monday night in which they got $18, and another at West Salem several weeks ago in which they obtained $12.

The other youth, the officers said, admitted burglarizing three filling stations in Richland county, one on U. S. route 42 in Lincoln Heights, another on U. S. route 30 in East Mansfield, and another on route 61 west of Shelby, besides a station on U. S. route 30 in Crawford county.

Detective Remy said today the two youths who participated in the Bexley holdup would be turned over to the Franklin county authorities while the six responsible for the other two stickups would be released to Huron county authorities. Detainers will be filed by Wayne county authorities for the West Salem holdup.

The other member of the gang, Remy said, will be charged with breaking and entering and will probably be arraigned for a preliminary hearing in municipal court Monday.

Officers said they had recovered one gun and two small pistols but that most of the loot had been divided among the gang and disposed of individually.

SAW WEAKNESS

PHILADELPHIA —(INS)— German ships which visited Philadelphia in the past were able to observe weaknesses of our coast defenses, according to former Mayor J. Hampton Moore of Philadelphia.

"This is a very good time to realize," said Moore, "that we are very inadequately defended along the Atlantic seaboard. The younger generation is unaware. I imagine, that American ships were sunk outside the Delaware River in the World war."

EXTEND SERVICE

Revival services now in progress at the Pilgrim Holiness church, 298 Newman street, will continue through July 28.

Services are held each evening at 7:30 with Rev. C. F. Smith, evangelist of Pennsylvania as the speaker. Tonight Rev. Smith will speak on "The Signs of the Times." At 3 p. m. Sunday he will speak on "The More Excellent Way," and at 7:30 p. m. his subject will be, "Future Retribution."

The series of meetings began last Sunday.

Claim Cruiser Inflicted Damage

ROME — (INS)— Claims that the Italian cruiser Bartolomeo Colleoni "inflicted heavy damage" upon British warcraft before being sunk in the Mediterranean were made today in an official military bulletin which reported:

"Yesterday off Crete there was a 3-hour combat, our light cruisers Giovanni Dalle Bande Nere and Bartolomeo Colleoni against two English cruisers of the Sydney type and four destroyers.

"Despite the inferiority of tonnage, our craft inflicted heavy damage on the enemy.

"The Bartomomeo Colleoni was hit and sunk. A large part of her crew was saved.

"Our bombing formations repeatedly reached and damaged the enemy, whereof one ship sank in flames."

(The Bartolomeo Colleoni, 5,069 tons and considered the fastest cruiser in the world, was sunk by the 6,830-ton Australian cruiser Sydney, London reported. After the sinking a second Italian cruiser withdrew from the engagement, the British admiralty claimed, and an English destroyer picked up 250 survivors from the Bartolomeo Colleoni. The British made no mention of having lost a ship in the fight.)

BAPTIST CHURCH TO HEAR GUEST TALK SUNDAY

President of Northern Young People's Union to Appear at Morning Service.

Jay S. Hudson of Cleveland, president of the Northern Baptist Young Peoples' Union of America, will be guest speaker Sunday at the Park Avenue Baptist church at the 10:30 a. m. service of worship

Hudson will speak on "The Spiritual Athlete," and young people of the church will be in charge of the service, another in a series of "youth emphasis" Sunday services.

Music for the service will include the anthem, "Incline Thine Ear," sung by a quartet, and Miss Willamine Hoffman will sing "O Lord Most Holy" as a solo Lawrence S. Frank, organist, will play three numbers, "Chorale Prelude in D Major," "Lullaby," and "March of the Priests."

Memory of Wild Southwest Still Kept Alive.

FORT SUMNER, N. M.—(U.P.)— A modern community lives a peaceful life under the hot Southwestern sun which beats down on a countryside once startled by raiding Apaches, carousing outlaws and the exploits of Billy the Kid.

The memory of the days from 1850 until the turn of the century are preserved in old landmarks and the grave of Billy the Kid.

Because of an increased tourist traffic, a movement has been started to restore the Kid's grave and some of the landmarks left by the days when U. S. Army soldiers repelled wild Apache Indians to keep them from raiding settlements in this section during the Civil war.

It was in this small community that famous Sheriff Pat Garrett shot it out with Billy the Kid and ended the career of that colorful Western character.

Some of the most daring of the Southwest's bad men came to carouse here before and after their forays, and here part of the bloody Lincoln County war was fought.

Self-Confidence Called Married Life's Best Bet

CHICAGO — (U.P.) — Self-confidence is the sole requisite for happiness in marriage, Ernest W. Burgess, University of Chicago sociologist told students at the Art Institute.

He said research and tests proved that self-confident persons were practical, congenial and sanguine, all they need to be to qualify as good husbands and wives.

Burgess advised persons lacking in confidence to choose mates of a dominant type, and vice versa, contending that opposite personalities are more likely to succeed in marriage.

"The sociable and the solitary, the extrovert and introvert, have the same excellent opportunity for happy wedded life if they select mates with opposite personalities," he asserted.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, JULY 20, 1940.

Drive carefully tomorrow—physicians and garagemen need a day of rest, too.

Nations like to have colonies as city men like to own farms whether they get anything out of 'em or not.

Photography gets another break. We seem to be coming into an era when presidential candidates' faces are not dead pans.

The Speech-Makers

THE Democratic and Republican conventions are both history by now, their serious deliberations written in the records and their lighter moments forgotten.

But somehow there remains emphatically in the minds of many who listened to the proceedings of both conventions one item, a sort of "file and forget" item.

It is that an awful lot of people just love to make speeches.

It is a disease that becomes epidemic at convention times.

It doesn't matter whether anyone listens—although each speaker probably fondly hopes that his speech is one that will go down in history.

Ponderous phrases roll off the tongue. Gestures flail the air. The voice rises to shrill heights of enthusiasm, then sinks to tense and tremulous depths of sincerity. It literally reeks of adjectives. It soars on superlatives so that it seems doubtful if even the speaker can believe as much as half of what he is saying.

Just when it seems that the point of human endurance has been reached, where no one can listen to another word of this ersatz eloquence and when there surely can be no one left with energy enough to say more than "I second the nomination of——," up pops a fledgling orator, full of zip, pep and speech, and off he goes, ignoring the fact that his audience is so surfeited with that stuff that its eyes are glazed and its ears numb.

Maybe these speeches are what make American political conventions "the greatest shows on earth."

But it's more likely that they make them a little bit sillier than they ought to be.

Britain's Choice

GREAT BRITAIN now has been given Hitler's final ultimatum.

Either she sits down and talks peace with the fuehrer or Great Britain will be subjected to an attack the like of which has never been known in the world.

No one now doubts for a moment that Hitler is entirely capable of launching such an attack. No one is foolish enough now to believe that when the German leader talks of military strength that he is bluffing.

His performances in the past have been entirely too convincing.

It may be that in a drawn-out war, other countries have resources that would last longer than Hitler's. But if that is the case, Hitler has had the answer for that. He fights short wars. But he wins them.

Britain has long known that she faced a dangerous foe. Since the fall of France, she has known that her situation was desperate.

An aroused Britain may prove to be a foe worthy of the mettle of the best Germany can throw at her.

Hitler faces a difficulty he has not previously encountered in attempting an invasion of "the tight little isle." And he will face defenses stronger than any yet arrayed against him.

From the news that came back from the battlefields of Flanders—ill-fated graveyard of French hopes—it seemed indisputable that the best allied fighters in the field were the British. Even the terrific beating they took as they embarked for home from Dunkerque failed to shake their spirit.

Britain's answer to Hitler will probably be "No."

May her defenses be strong enough to make that "No" stick!

A Boy's Bravery

THE bravery of one 14-year-old boy can be credited with breaking up that "shakedown" racket operated by two caddies at the Possum Run golf course.

He was the one victim of the youthful racketeers who demanded or forcibly took a portion of the day's earnings of the other boys, with enough courage to bring the shakedown to a showdown.

For refusing to divide his caddy fees with the shakedown pair, he was soundly thrashed. So soundly that the bruises left on him led to questioning by his parents and brought the whole thing to light.

Why did Robert Arntz, 14, refuse the demands of the racketeers?

Because, he said, he believed that if he fought hard against their demands, the other caddies would have the courage to fight similarly and the racket would be broken up.

Young Robert, who deserves a fine tribute for his courage, has attained a goal.

Probate Judge Anderson has warned the youthful offenders that a repetition of their racket will mean "serious trouble" for them. We hope he makes good in the sternest way possible on that warning if the boys try to resume their shakedowns.

But the likelihood is that it won't be repeated. The golf course, carefully kept in ignorance of what was going on, will give close supervision to prevent repetition of the episode.

Wine and Water

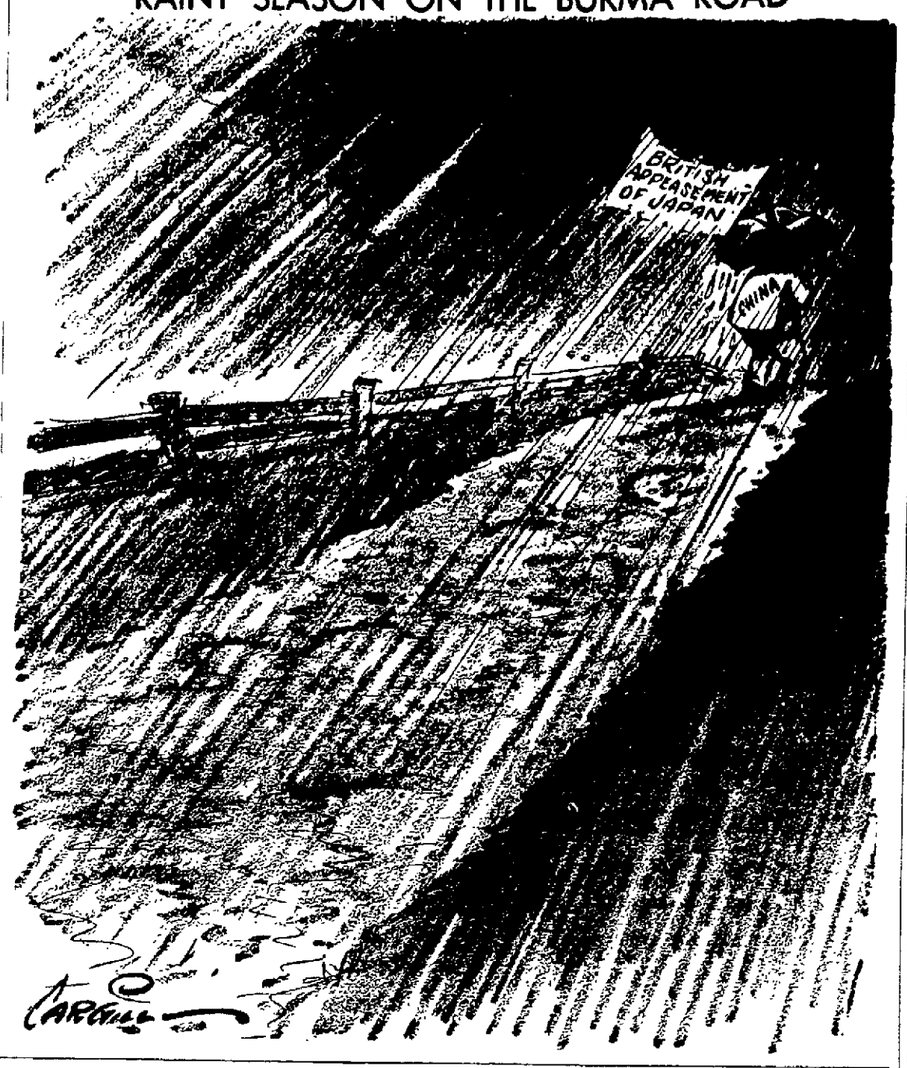
A UNIQUE SHOW-OFF, if we may use such an accomplished master term, is Emil Perlot, a French visitor in Pittsburgh who came to see the world's fair in New York. M. Perlot is said to be 100 years old. But that is not his only claim to fame. In all his century of life, he proudly admits, he has never once tasted water. He has no idea what it tastes like and isn't interested in finding out.

That's alright, we suppose, for a Frenchman. Everybody says their water is no good over there, and then who is he to buck the crowd and follow any curiosity? He should try our American water some day—really, it's not so bad.

Of course figures show that American cities are not growing as fast any more, people mostly coming into the stability of middle age.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai Shek says China now has 5,000,000 soldiers. That's fine, but have the soldiers guns?

RAINY SEASON ON THE BURMA ROAD



Listen, World!

Keep Cool!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THEY are going to have an Aquatenniel in Minneapolis between July 20 and 28. Swimming, diving, racing, and various other sports.

I think it's a great idea. If there's one thing we Americans need above all others in this present crisis it is TO KEEP COOL. Cool in mind as well as body.

In danger? Of course we are. But what most of us don't realize is that we've been in danger for the last 30 years.

We've been in danger ever since American life ceased being hard and monotonous and began to be soft and exciting. And you can't cure a condition like that by a spasm of hysteria.

If we hope to save ourselves, we've got to think this thing out straight instead of going off half cocked. Our greatest and most imminent peril isn't a Nazi invasion . . . but our own degeneration.

We've taken things too easy since machines came in. We've become too soft and petulant. Our minds as well as our bodies have become flabby. We've forgotten the hard, tough ways of our fathers. The long hikes through the pathless wilderness. The ruthless rasp of hunger and thirst. The jaw-gripping plunge in some icy stream . . . and the deep, natural sleep on the forest's hard floor. The lonely vigil before creeping danger. The daily discipline when there was no one to order or applaud.

We've forgotten these trials and tests which were once the makings of America . . . which gave the tone to the American character. We've forgotten how to be hard—and proud of hardness. We've forgotten how to be lean and swift and tough in mind and body. And we've lost a tragic lot by forgetting.

That loss is our greatest menace today. We get frightened and furious, reading the news, listening to the radio commentators. We begin raving about "those brutal Germans" . . . those "traitorous Norwegians" . . . those panicky Frenchmen. But we forget that we're as unprepared to meet a possible enemy as any of the vanquished European nations.

The Nazis didn't make us unprepared. England hasn't forced an emergency upon us. We'd have been unfit if Hitler had never been born; we'd have been unprepared for current crises if there had never been a war.

For we, ourselves, have let ourselves go ga-ga. We have sneered at the natural, wholesome laws on which our dream of Democracy was founded. We have let machines make monkeys of us all.

That's why I'm strong for that Aquatenniel at Minneapolis. It isn't a lot of commercial glitter and gush and go-getem. It's a return to the fundamental pattern and principles of the American life and character. It'll take the lard off our minds and spirits as well as our waistlines. It'll make us remember how and why we become a land of free, proud souls . . . and what that pride and freedom cost in self-control and discipline.

If I had a youngster within reach of Minneapolis, I'd take him or her to that Aquatenniel. And I'd say:

"Look, kid—here's how we started. Here's what made us what we used to be—but have forgotten how to be. These aren't just 'stunts' . . . smart publicity. They are the result of long hours of training . . . rigorous discipline . . . self-control and sacrifice . . . hard work and spunk.

"Don't worry about the war, just yet. The war isn't our biggest trouble. We ourselves are our biggest trouble . . . our own weakness and softness and laziness, that's our most immediate and pressing problem. And unless we can conquer that problem we're going to be licked, even if a Nazi never shows his head. So keep cool, kid. AND DO A JOB ON YOURSELF!"

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Strange how Pine street continues to bob up in the diary of Manhattan. You read a lot about it now because it is where Wendell Willkie has his offices. Years ago it was the scene of a sensational murder, and once a play was written about it, "No. 9 Pine Street." The girl who played the lead in the play was Lillian Gish. Not that we want to cast a damper on any budding election campaigns that may be being formed around Pine street these days, but "No. 9 Pine Street," as a play, was a melancholy failure. It ran only a few performances.

Our award for the most heartening never-say-die spirit goes to a former Follies girl, Capi Grinder, who finally had to quit show business because of declining health. As a matter of fact, the malady was t.b. and her doctors told her she didn't have long to live. But that was 15 years ago, and today, at 49, Capi is the swimming instructress at Frank Seiden's Lido Beach club on Long Island . . . . "There may be people who feel better than I do," Capi says, poising for a plunge, "but if there are I have not seen them."

Perhaps night prowlers and insomniacs will appreciate this information. New York's air is purest at 4 a. m. It is most polluted at 9 a. m. Back in 1932 the city installed a sensitive bit of apparatus that registers all these things, and I just thought you'd like to know.

Although New York is a sprawling city of five great boroughs, it is also a sort of loose federation of many picturesquely named districts, such as Throg's Neck, which is in the Bronx, Hell's Kitchen, and Sugar Hill, Hell's Kitchen, best known perhaps of these districts because it has the reputation of being rough, tough, and ugly, is where George Raft grew up as a kid. It was notorious in the old days for its religious fights.

Note to Mr. James T. Higgins, Internal Revenue Service, Treasury Dept. . . . Dear Jim, Now let's get this thing straightened out. Yes, I filed a return for 1938. Don't you remember? You summoned me one day last July and I went down to see you, and after you went over my papers you turned to me and said, "Mister, you don't know how to file an income tax return." And when I said, "Okay, how much do I owe you?" you said "You don't understand, it is we who owe you." And three or four months later you sent me a check. Remember? I'll come down again if you want me to. I just mention this because I thought you ought to know. G. T.

This Is Ohio

Ohio sands and clays have an annual value greater than California's gold. Many of Ohio's industries are built around the natural resources of the state. The state ranks sixth in the value of its mineral production, surpassed only by states having heavier coal and petroleum product resources.

A listing of Ohio's more important mineral resources includes coal, clay, shale, limestone, dolomite, sandstone, stones for abrasive use, marl, peat, gypsum and salt. These resources in large measure account for the state's leadership in the potteries, brick, steel and related industries.

Summary of Week's Happenings

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

THERE never was any doubt the Democrats would nominate President Roosevelt for a third term—even after Senator "Dear Alben" Barkley gave the convention his message that he didn't want it.

Alabama started the ball rolling Wednesday night with a lengthy nominating speech by Senator Lister Hill. The president got 946 13/30 votes. Four other candidates (Garner, Farley, Tydings and Hull) received a total of 148 11/15.

Thursday night, although some of the delegates grumbled about it, the convention gave President Roosevelt the man he wanted as the vice presidential nominee—Henry Agard Wallace, now secretary of agriculture.

The Democrats had the edge on the Republicans when it came to spiking together a platform. They had the G. O. P. program before them, could make issues out of what it contained—and what it didn't.

Won't Send Soldiers Abroad.

Most notable Republican failure in their eyes was lack of a strong plank against involving the U. S. in war. Near the top of the 4,000-word Democratic platform was this statement:

"We will not participate in foreign wars, and we will not send our army, navy or air forces to fight in foreign lands outside of the Americas, except in case of attack."

The Republicans merely said they were "firmly opposed to involving this nation in foreign war."

The Democrats followed the G. O. P., however, in promising "all the material aid at our command, consistent with law and . . . our own national defense . . . to peace-loving and liberty-loving peoples wantonly attacked by ruthless aggressors."

This is strictly in line with Roosevelt foreign policy.

Both parties called for defense forces strong enough to defend the United States and its outposts. Both declared for stiff enforcement of the Monroe Doctrine.

On their labor planks, they differed.

Democrats Adopt C. I. O. Plank.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, has sought to have the Wagner Labor Relations Act changed, and the Republican platform advocated amendments.

John L. Lewis and the C. I. O. have opposed any change. The Democratic plank said "We pledge to continue to enforce fair labor standards; to maintain the principles of the national Labor Relations Act."

On relief, again, there were marked differences.

The Republican plank: "We shall remove waste, discrimination and politics from relief—through administration by the states."

The Democratic plank: "We believe that this Republican proposal is a thinly disguised plan to put the unemployed back on the dole."

Here is how some of the other planks stack up:

AGRICULTURE

Republicans—"We propose to provide benefit payments based upon . . . a soil conservation program free from government-dominated production control."

Democrats—"We pledge ourselves to make parity as well as soil conservation payments . . . to continue to provide for adjustment of production through Democratic processes."

RECIPROCAL TRADE TREATIES

Republicans—"We condemn the manner in which the so-called reciprocal trade agreements have been put into effect . . . without congressional approval."

Democrats—"We shall cultivate foreign trade through desirable trade agreements."

SOCIAL SECURITY

Republicans—"We favor the extension of necessary old age benefits."

Democrats—"We pledge to make the social security act increasingly effective by covering millions of persons not now protected."

BUSINESS

Republicans—"We shall revise the tax system and remove those practices which impede recovery."

Democrats—"We have attacked and will continue to attack unbridled concentration of economic power and the exploitation of the consumer and the investor."

SPENDING

Republicans—"Expenditures . . shall be cut to levels necessary for the essential services of government."

Democrats—"The full force of our politics, by raising the national income by 30 billion dollars . . . has quickened the flow of buying and selling."

At Home

In Time Of Peace . . .

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S defense commission is thinking of war in time of peace.

This week it reported to Mr. Roosevelt that it had let contracts for more than 1½ billion dollars worth of army and navy equipment in a little over a month.

An outstanding part of the report was submitted by Edward R. Stettinius, jr., in charge of the commission's raw materials division.

Stettinius said "substantial supplies" of important foreign-produced materials were being imported and that by Aug. 1 emergency rubber requirements probably can be filled "through the manufacture of synthetic rubber."

The president and Secretary of War Stimson decided to ask Congress to approve a plan to put 50,000 national guardsmen into camps for perhaps a year of intensive training.

The guardsmen might be used to teach conscripts if a compulsory training law is enacted. Stimson said he hoped to see such a law within a month.

* * *

Hysteria Ahead?

During the World war suspected pro-Germans, "slackers," labor leaders, conscientious objectors to war were persecuted, often mobbed or jailed.

This week the American Civil Liberties Union gloomily reported "a wave of intolerance, against aliens, Bundists and Communists particularly . . . and in Congress the threatened passage of bills of a character unprecedented even in the World war."

* * *

Smear Campaign?

The Democratic platform contained a section headed "Electric Power." It said:

"The nomination of a utility executive by the Republican party as its presidential candidate raises squarely the issue, whether the nation's water power shall be used for all the people or for the selfish interests of a few."

Only a few hours before, Wendell Willkie, G. O. P. presidential nominee, had said:

"I am hoping that the campaign will be conducted solely on the issues. If, however, the opposition decides to reduce it to a smear campaign . . . we will do our best to take care of ourselves."

Abroad

'Water And Air.'

FRANCE'S new totalitarian government looked on Nazi Germany's youth program this week and found it good.

"If the Germans defeated us on the battlefield," said Jean Ybarnegary, minister of family and health, "it was due to their practical, rational education of youth."

He announced a "water and air" regime to build up French health and morals "from infancy on." Youth will be discouraged from drinking alcoholic beverages, encouraged to exercise outdoors; "large families will be encouraged."

France thus began to weave itself into the authoritarian pattern. Marshal Henri Petain, chief of state, even went so far as to name Pierre Laval, former premier, as his successor.

Opposition to the Petain government popped up in the newspapers. Paris Soir said "persons responsible for the past seem hardly qualified to take care of our future."

U. S. officials at Paris reported little damage to American property during the German invasion. Notices were posted on buildings, autos, etc., certifying to their ownership.

* * *

Turmoil, Turnover.

FRANCE and Holland have rich colonies in east Asia. They can't protect them alone, and England is far too busy to help them.

Knowing this, firebrands in the Japanese army have been pressing the government to sound the "charge" for a "new order in East Asia"—meaning Japanese domination.

Premier Admiral Yonai's government was hesitant, but this week the army men gathered enough strength to force Yonai to resign. Emperor Hirohito asked Prince Konoye, fascist-inclined militarist, to form a new cabinet.

The government was expected first to try to force the "incident" in China to a finish—either by defeating Chiang Kai-Shek or by making an advantageous peace.

One step already had been taken. Britain agreed to close the "Burma road" for three months and cut China off from Hong Kong. The Burma road, which follows the ancient silk route that Marco Polo trod, is one of China's three remaining lifelines. Over it she has been getting guns, planes, gasoline.

When the agreement was disclosed in British parliament, liberal members shouted "shame" and called it "another Munich."

* * *

Baltics Vote 'Yes.'

Last month Russia charged the governments of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania were anti-Soviet, sent troops into the Baltic nations to back up her demand that friendly parliaments be elected.

This week voters of the three countries cast a ballot officially estimated at 90 per cent in favor of pro-Russian governments.

There was no space for a "no" vote.

Death Of A Giant.

To Mr. and Mrs. Harold F. Wadlow of Alton, Ill., a son was born Feb. 22, 1918.

He weighed a normal 8½ pounds, but he grew abnormally fast. At a year and a half he weighed 62 pounds.

At 22, Robert Pershing Wadlow was 8 feet 10½ inches tall, weighed 491 pounds. He was the tallest man in medical history.

Doctors said his growth was due to over-activity of the pituitary gland. Aside from his size, Robert was an average young man.

He visited Hollywood but said, "I don't care much about being a movie actor—I like to travel, especially all over the United States."

As a see-America-first fan, Robert got a job traveling for a shoe company. He was managed by his father, who quit as a factory foreman.

July 4 a brace chafed Robert's left ankle. Infection started. This week the young giant died.

Timely Editorial

Peace of Little Things.

Peace consists of little things in the country. They are almost too familiar to be noticed. Over the rim of the calm earth the sun rises with glory and the comfort of day wraps us in security. This is how the world was intended to be—unhurried, full of light, expectant, green. A slow routine frames the day and gives it foundation. The cows leisurely appear in the pasture before breakfast. The road gang goes to work with a clatter of trucks and tools. The carpenter and his assistant turn the corner on the way to the house they are building. The putter of the tractor comes from a valley hayfield. In midmorning the heavy milk truck rolls down the hill. Toward noon there is a general gathering at the postoffice for the mail and conversation, and a few people go on errands to the store.

Nearly everything that happens can be anticipated. Even the changes in routine, like the appearance of the truck from the mill or the passing of a load of lumber, can be fitted into the general pattern of a community looking after its affairs. Some one is planting buckwheat and needs fertilizer, or some one is building a shed. If the garage car shoots up the hill in a cloud of dust it is certain that some one's car is desperately ailing.

In a baleful world that is booming and crashing and sick with foreboding, these are not important things, and no one thinks about them much. But they are the warp and woof of peace in the country, and infinitely precious as tokens of the world as it was intended to be. Thousands of stricken people in Europe will feel blessed if, by God's mercy, they return to a life of little things that are normal. Little things have an ancient lineage that is honorable. —New York Times.

Simplicity Marks Quiet Marriage at Boughton Home

Simplicity marked the quiet marriage yesterday at 2 o'clock of Miss Ruth Helen Boughton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Boughton, 135 Boughton avenue, to Wilford A. Hipp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Farrell B. Hipp, 142 West Dickson avenue. Rev. H. L. Gilbert, pastor of St. Paul Lutheran church, officiated before the improvised altar which was banked with ferns, and beauty baskets of pink and white flowers, and two tall candelabra fitted with lighted white tapers.

The former Miss Boughton, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a simple white lace street gown, with matching accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds and gypsophilia. She was graduated from the Mansfield Senior high school, and has been employed at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.

Mr. Hipp attended the Crestline schools, and is employed at the Mansfield Towel Supply company. After the wedding, a small reception for members of the families and close friends was held at the home. Mrs. David Ireland furnished a medley of nuptial music and played the wedding march.

The couple left yesterday for a brief wedding trip. Upon their return to Mansfield they will reside temporarily with Mrs. Hipp's parents on Boughton avenue.

Mrs. W. A. Shawber, Galion, grandmother of the bride-groom, was an out-of-town guest at the wedding.

Couple Wedded In June Families Told Recently

Announcement was made today of the marriage of Miss Donna Mae Berry and Arthur Smith at a recent family dinner party at the bridegroom's home. The couple was married June 23 at Russell, Ky. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Garland Harris.

The former Miss Berry is the daughter of Mrs. M. B. Berry, R. D. 1, and Mr. Smith is the son of Mrs. Mabel Smith, 453½ Wayne street. Both Mr. and Mrs. Smith are graduates of the Lucas high school, and he is employed at the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company.

ANNOUNCE MARRIAGE.

Announcement was made today of the marriage Dec. 23, 1939 at Covington, Ky. of Miss Edna Winifred Leary to Wayne Hull. The bride, who made her home at 104 Lida street, is the daughter of Mrs. E. F. Schuck, Ashland road, and J. J. Leary, Chillicothe. Mr. Hull is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hull, 12½ North Adams street. Mrs. Hull was employed at the Westinghouse, and her husband is an employe of the Dominion Electric company. Mr. and Mrs. Hull are now at home at 77 Superior street.

Handkerchief Shower Given Mrs. Bistline

Mrs. Cloyd Fox, South Main street road, opened her home to members of the Busy Bee club yesterday with Mrs. Clara Calver assisting. Mrs. Mae Diesem presided during the business session, at which time it was decided to have a family picnic Aug. 2 at North Lake park.

Guests yesterday were Mrs. Laura McCormick and Mrs. Ella Taylor. Bunco was played, and prizes were awarded to Mrs. Gus Schill, Mrs. Mary Somers, Mrs. Thomas Long and Mrs. McCormick. A handkerchief shower was given to Mrs. George Bistline in honor of her birthday. When refreshments were served, the hostess presented her with a cake.

Bride-to-Be Hostesses Pose at Party

Announcement of the engagement of Miss Mary Jayne Menke to Howard L. Guest, Athens, Ga., was made Thursday night at a party given at the Mangan home on Chilton avenue. Shown above from left to right are Mrs. Joseph Menke, aunt of the bride-elect, Miss Menke, Mrs. Roscoe Mangan, and Mrs. Mark Menke, mother of the bride-to-be.

Take Time Now for Reducing

By MME. QUI VIVE

This is the season of the year when reducing is easy. There aren't as many parties where one must refuse delicious tempting groceries. In the warm season appetite is not so keen. There are all manner of opportunities for pleasant outdoor exercises. So, Madame Plumpie, if you have had in mind a determination to whittle down your too abundant shape, get busy. Do it now!

Overeating and lack of exercise are the usual causes of obesity. Now and then the excess poundage comes because of ductless gland deficiencies, in which case medical attention is necessary. In the average case, ten pounds a month can be deleted—and that's going fast enough—by avoiding those foods that bank up into human suet. The appetite must be trained; when it is trained it won't yearn for fats, sweets, starches and cereals, but will settle down to an appreciation of the right kind of food.

The food elements mentioned must not be entirely deleted; they are necessary, but they must be greatly reduced. Proteins—meat, fish, eggs and cheese—are necessary for maintenance of the body cells. One can have steaks, chops, lean roast beef and lamb, crisp bacon, fish that do not contain fat, like codfish and sole.

The markets have almost every kind of a vegetable now, and vegetables should provide a large part of the diet, especially cabbage, onions, asparagus, tomatoes, watercress, string beans, carrots, celery, cucumbers, spinach, squash and turnips. The enemy vegetables are potatoes, eggplant when fried in butter, baked beans, lima beans and corn, the last three being starchy, and therefore off the diet record.

Cream soups are fattening, clear broths are strengthening. Lettuce should be eaten once a day, the French dressing containing mineral oil instead of olive oil. Rich sauces, pastries, white bread—get accustomed to toasted rye and you will like it—bonbons, cream and butter are all busy little builders of adipose tissue.

Fruits one can have aplenty, also fruit juices if they are not sweetened. Cottage cheese and buttermilk are highly recommended, so is unsweetened lemonade.

Exercise need not be strenuous. A three-mile walk every day is what the beauty doctor orders. Swimming is an excellent reducer if one really swims, doesn't just play around. A course in a gym, under the directions of a capable instructor will speed up the campaign for the willowy shape.

To keep the facial tissues from sagging as one loses weight it is necessary to pat and slap the flesh freely at least once a day with a heavy cream, friction with an ice cube while the cream remains on.

PIGSKIN

Now that Americans are beginning to appreciate the superior quality of their home-tanned leathers, they are demanding more style in their American-made leather gloves. Pigskin no longer confines its unusual beauty to the steering-wheel and the golf-club, but, with the clever aid of decorative tucking, cording, stitching and other dressmaker details, has become an accepted fashion for street wear.

Put It All In Oven For Supper

By BETSY NEWMAN

You will need to have your oven going for just a little less than 1 hour to cook this dinner, and I think the result will justify the heat. Cook the spinach in the oven at the same time, covered, just as you would on top of stove, with water that adheres after it is washed. It should cook in ½ hour or less.

Today's Menu.

Hamburger Layer
Scalloped Potatoes
Fresh Spinach Sliced Cucumbers
Pineapple Sponge Iced Tea

* * *

Hamburger Layer.

2 lbs. ground beef
¼ lb. ground salt pork
1 green pepper
2 tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
2 meduim sized onions
3 good sized tomatoes

Spread meats, mixed together, and seasoned with salt and pepper, out in baking dish until about 1½ inches thick. On top put onions, sliced thin, the green pepper, also sliced thin, and enough tomato pulp to cover top. Bake about 40 minutes.

North Lake Park Scene of Several Family Outings

There were 70 present last night at the North Lake park pavilion for the annual family picnic of the park association. The members were seated at long tables decorated with bouquets of garden flowers. Bridge was played during the evening with prizes going to Mrs. R. C. Barrett and Mrs. Charles McBride.

The committee on arrangements included Mr. and Mrs. William Zediker, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Zellner, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Almy, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. John Schnorr, Mr. and Mrs. George Hoover and Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Hoyer.

* * *

North Lake park was a busy spot last evening as 54 members, their families, and guests of the Lucretia Hedges Missionary society of the First Methodist church gathered at the park for a covered-dish picnic supper.

Mrs. James Rizer, president, conducted a brief meeting, and plans were made to begin the autumn season with a September meeting. Arrangements were in charge of Mrs. S. R. Baird, Miss Nellie McIlvaine, Mrs. Perry Backenstos, and Mrs. A. H. Baker.

Personals

Rev. Kenneth Hans of St. Agnes parish, Toledo, has returned home after spending several days with his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Hans, 355 Altamont avenue.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Amos Venier, Fredericktown, have just returned home after spending the last week as the guest of Mrs. Fred Hasenzahl, 200 Park avenue east.

* * *

Barbara Bailey, Joan Endriss, Judy McKenzie, and Jeanie Kroegher are leaving Monday for Wildwood camp of the Y. W. C. A. near Columbus. The girls will spend 10 days there.

SLIMMING EFFECTS

For the hand that needs slenderizing (and what hand doesn't?, new American-made leather gloves are featuring long, slim lines of trimming running from the tip of the little finger down the side, to the hem. Embroideries, appliques, or contrasting, stitchings and inserts are used in this way.

GARDEN CLUBS HAVE ROUTINE SESSIONS

Astowela Entertains Younger Group at Picnic; Town and Country, Johnny Appleseed Have Meetings.

TEN MEMBERS of the Junior Garden club were the guests of the Astowela Garden club yesterday at a picnic at South park. Favors of tiny potted plants were presented to each guest. Mrs. Richard Fensch, Miss Carolyn Walter, Mrs. P. J. Kelly and Mrs. A. R. Perl were the hostesses. Contests were the diversion. The next regular meeting will be held Aug. 2 with Mrs. Frank Cummins as hostess, assisted by Mrs. W. L. Althouse. Mrs. Perl will be in charge of the program.

* * *

Luncheon was served at 1 o'clock to members of the Town and Country Garden club yesterday when Mrs. Wickham Old entertained at Schwarz tavern on the Lexington avenue road. There were 22 present for the short business meeting during which Mrs. Stuart Cramer, Mrs. Harry Longsdorf and Mrs. Wilmot Peirce were named to assist Mrs. Eugene Smart, school gardens chairman, with judging.

"Old Time Gardens" was the subject of the paper dealing with colonial gardens given by Mrs. H. C. Little. The next meeting will be held Aug. 2 with Mrs. David Shelley, Westwood avenue.

* * *

A program giving the names, botanical identification, and family history of all the flowers which have been planted in the South park preserve by the members of the Johnny Appleseed Garden club was given yesterday by Miss Florence Wagner, horticulture chairman, before the group.

Mrs. Tom Ford, Alta, was hostess. Luncheon was served and Mrs. Thomas Siegenthaler and Mrs. Robert Van Fossen, Washington, D. C., a guest, poured. Garden flowers were used throughout the house. The next meeting will be a picnic Aug. 2 at the Fernyak cabin with Mrs. Carlton Fernyak serving as hostess.

BREAKFAST TOMORROW.

Members of the Centenary class of the Central Methodist church will meet at the roadside park near Mifflin at 6:30 a. m. tomorrow for a breakfast. Each member is asked to bring his own food. The lesson will be taught outside following the meal.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Rudd, Glenwood boulevard, and Mr. and Mrs. William Gugler, North Mulberry street, left today for a conducted tour of the West, which will extend from Portland to Los Angeles. They will pick up an all-Pullman special train tonight in Chicago.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, July 21.

SUNDAY'S horoscope stresses the prospect of very lively and happy social and romantic engagements, with all manner of celebrations. In connection with this festivity there may be much traveling about, and according to an adverse aspect this will be attended by peril, sudden developments or other untoward manifestations. So be prudent, alert and discreet.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a pleasant year with happy developments in the domestic, social and affectional life, also in the artistic should the talents and inclinations lie in that channel.

A child born on this day although generally being gracious, afable and good natured, may have moments of temperament or other erratic seizures. It should be artistic, refined and romantic.

For Monday, July 22.

MONDAY'S Astrological Forecast favors all manner of literary, intellectual and commercial pursuit, in which new contracts, agreements are in order. There may be nothing sensational about these fresh contacts which may lead to short journeys or meeting with young folk.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a successful year in all intellectual, literary and commercial pursuits, which are in line for progress or new arrangements. This may involve short journeys, where there are to be contacts with the young and lively. But be vigilant about friction or trivialities with the opposite sex.

A child born on this day may be versatile and clever with tongue and pen, good at publicity, sales, literature or promotional enterprises.

WED LAST NIGHT.

Miss Ruth Wright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Doyle R. Wright, 515 Daisy street, and Melvan Jake Hriesik, son of Mrs. John Hriesik, 119 Lily street, were married quietly last evening at 8:30 o'clock at the parsonage of St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church. Rev. Paul H. Saleste officiated. A small reception followed at the bride's home.

ATTACK AND DEFENSE

Just as a boxer protects himself the best he can while also trying to attack his opponent successfully, a No Trump declarer must guard himself against the run of a dangerous suit while he is trying to build up the tricks he needs. One of the greatest perils that can threaten a No Trump contract is that of letting the opponents lead through some suit in which he has only a single guard.

This hand furnished a beautiful example of sound bidding gone wrong. The first trick consisted of the diamond 4, 10, J and Q. A brief glance told South his contract was a cinch. So he promptly laid down his spade A and finessed the 10. When East won this with the Q, he switched to his diamond 9 and, as a consequence, the contract was set.

South had really only one danger against which to protect himself. That was the possibility that East might get into the lead. Any finessing should have been toward West, who could not lead through the diamond K, but only up to it.

If the declarer had gone to the dummy with a heart on the second trick and then finessed clubs, no power on earth could have prevented him from making overtricks.

CHAPTER XXXII

Because the summer sun in Northern Arizona cracked through the haze of night at a most unseemly hour, touching the high altitudes with early heat, Rosemary and Sue got out of bed with an avowed determination to go swimming at once.

"It's cold at night and hot in the daytime here," Sue said, petulantly.

"I love it!" Rosemary exclaimed. "When you can sleep good, let the heat come on. Anyhow, we have the lake."

Sue had brought her swim suit in anticipation of this moment, and together the girls slipped from night clothes to beach clothes in less than a minute. Rosemary's was a molded lastex of latest Atlantic coast design, a two-tone blue with no ornament save a rosette on the shoulder. Sue's was white wool spotted all over with cattle brands.

"Su-u-u-ue!" Rosemary exclaimed, in hushed tone of admiration.

"Thanks, kiddo. I like it myself. They were designed by a rancher who turned merchant in town. These are all famous Arizona brands."

Rosemary felt properly squelched. She had thought her eight-dollar suit devastating; indeed she feared it might be almost too revealing, so chic and modern was it, and she had expected to win praise when she showed it off in Arizona for the first time, she told Sue.

"And here you come along," she concluded, laughing, "with a model that steals all my thunder. I just hate you, Sue McKee!"

"Tra-la-la-la, la la!" Sue sang. "The green-eyed monster roars."

"The truth is, I didn't expect Arizona to be so modern. I imagined you'd all be backwoodsy."

"Practically all dudes have to go through that stage, honey."

They bounced downstairs and were on the front porch almost simultaneously with the arrival of three automobiles—one of them Bob King's, and one Monty's, and one a big truck loaded with 50-gallon gasoline drums. Bob and Monty and the truck driver all discovered the girls at once. Their entry on this stage couldn't have been better planned!

"Oh I say!" exclaimed Dr. Montgomery, beaming. Bob just whistled, and the third man grinned and stared. Acting in make-believe, the girls promenaded the length of the porch and back.

"Like us-" Rosemary teased.

"A to z, inclusive!" roared Bob.

"I say—oh I must say—most extraordinary! An esthetic study!"

"By all of those big words, Monty, I take it that you approve?" Sue demanded haughtily, her lovely eyes sparkling.

Monty blushed crimson but his approval was obvious.

"We came for breakfast, not a bathing beauty show," Bob declared. "How's chances of grub?"

"Grub!" snapped Sue. "No, indeed! All men think of is food. Rosemary—come on!"

They fled instantly like frightened does, disappearing in the light underbrush that dotted the old truck trail to the lake. All three men stood staring. Of one accord they admitted that never had they beheld such beauty before.

"We almost missed that," said Bob King, shaking his head in sheer admiration.

"Quite so," said Monty.

They went into the store then, Monty stopping to beckon to the truck driver. "Just come on for breakfast first, eh? Then I will help unload the drums. You said you had been driving most of the night."

"Thanks, mister. I am starved, no jokin'!"

Pola, Walpi Tom's fat squaw, had come out front with her new papoose strapped on her back, and she signified to the three men that they could eat immediately. She started them off with mugs—not cups, but pint-sized mugs—of delicious coffee.

Next she came back with a platter of beefsteaks that had been dipped in flour and fried. To support this was a mountain composed of fifteen huge biscuits, hot from her oven.

When the plates came, each held two eggs fried eyes up. Then there was a great bowl of peach preserves, golden red; a whole pound of butter, and a quart pitcher of syrup. While the men pitched in to these starters, she busied herself out in the kitchen and came back presently with eight pancakes for each.

* * *

Nobody made any comment. A few weeks ago Dr. Archibald Montgomery, Phi Beta Kappa and Ph. D., off Yale and New York City, would have been appalled at such a bounty of food. Now he took it as matter-of factly as did Bob and the truck driver. Pola had learned about paleface men in her mountain country: they like to eat three squares a day, and she knew how to prepare for them. Each meal was a bargain at fifty cents.

"I have to eat somewhere every morning," Bob was explaining, presently, to the truck man," and since my patrol nearly always takes me by here, I just drop in to eat Pola's grub. It's the best on the mountains."

"Quite so. Yes indeed!" Monty nodded.

"You been picking up weight, eh professor?" Bob appraised him.

"Eleven pounds!" Monty admitted, proudly. "Most I ever weighed."

"'Swhat this country does for a man. You believe what I told you when you first come? I mean, about this being God's country?"

"Well, yes, Bob. I respect your enthusiasm, very much. It is a good country."

"Good, hell! It's perfect!"

"You said it, mister!" the truck driver echoed.

Monty smiled happily. He felt at ease, even enjoyed their rough masculine comradeship despite the profanity of which he disapproved. Or, come to think of it, was an occasional "hell" and "damn" to be classed as profanity? Probably not. Probably he had been too—ah, finicky, about these matters. One can be too refined! At least a man can. Too bookish and refined.

Monty's thoughts thus were racing for the brief moment there while the other men picked their teeth. Both were sturdy, strong men. The truck driver needed a shave. Bob's ranger uniform was meticulously neat, his face square and handsome and forceful, his eyes healthy and clear. Very unlike many of the city men one encounters, Monty thought.

"Ahrumpf!" Monty cleared his throat, lounging on the counter as the others did, then deliberately reaching for a toothpick, too. "Likely to be hot as—ah, hell, today. Don't you think?"

He addressed the truck driver. It was a daring thing for Monty to say; at least, a daring way for him to say it. He was a little awed at his own temerity.

"Damn right!" the truck man nodded. "She'll boil hell out of an Eskimo before sundown."

"Quite so!" Monty was one of them, one of the gang! He had been tacitly accepted, for neither the truck driver nor Bob King saw anything unusual at all in this man-talk.

"Well," Bob patted his stomach contentedly, "I wish I had time now to go down to the lake, eh professor?" He laughed almost raucously.

"A good swim would be a pleasure indeed. After digestion has taken its course."

"I wasn't thinking much of swimming. I just had in mind lounging on the beach, if you get what I mean."

The truck driver got what he meant. So, for that matter did Monty, who involuntarily frowned.

"That Rosemary Taylor is the prettiest little piece of femininity that's come down the pike this year! Hot Cha!" Bob's enthusiasm was open and frank. "You see how she was poured into that blue suit?"

Now here was a topic which directly concerned Dr. Montgomery, and so he either missed or chose to ignore entirely any possible crude connotation which Bob's words might have had. Monty turned to the ranger and spoke earnestly.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I started to answer Dicky's query concerning our car, but Lillian quickly forestalled me.

"We'll show you when we get out of here," she said, evidently not choosing to give away even so minor a secret to Leslie and his chauffeur, who, though gagged and trussed, still had the use of their ears.

"Have it your own sweet way," Dicky gibed, and put himself between us, grasping an arm of each of us with one of his hands.

"March onward down the field!" he chanted under his breath. "On to the fray!" and then he added with a reminiscent chuckle, "I remember the day we made them eat that mit mustard sauce."

But his merry mood fell from him as soon as we came into the road.

"Make it snappy!" he urged. "We want to get out of here."

"This way," Lillian said, setting a brisk pace toward the wood path where both Jack Leslie's roadster and our station wagon were concealed. When we had reached it she spoke in low tones, though there was no slightest possibility of either of the trussed men hearing her.

"This is Leslie's runabout," she said. "The station wagon is quite a ways back along this road."

Dicky frowned as his gaze traveled back along the twisting wood path.

A Blocked Road.

"Not so good," he said, as he stepped on the running board of the runabout. "There's no key in here, and I didn't feel any on that chauffeur lad when I frisked him."

"Perhaps he put it in the compartment," I said. "I generally do."

He opened the compartment and after rummaging a bit among the papers it contained, brought forth a car key.

"If this fits," he said as he stooped to the ignition, "you get a medal."

When the motor turned over, we knew that he had found the right key, and with it running smoothly, Dicky sent a worried look over his shoulder.

"That's going to be a slow, tricky job, backing that station wagon out of there," he said.

"No, it isn't," Lillian countered triumphantly. "It's coming out head first. Madge backed it down the path."

"Now I'll run this boat up the road a bit in the opposite direction from where we came in, and pull a wire or two out for good measure. It will take quite a bit of starting when they find it. Then I'll beat it back here. Can you two get the station wagon down here pronto?"

"I imagine we can," Lillian said dryly, and on the word we hurried back along the winding path where we had left the station wagon, and where we found it just as we had left it. Lillian climbed in beside me, when I had mounted to the driver's seat, and, starting the car, I sent it carefully but as swiftly as possible along the twisting path to the road. Dicky was running toward us as we emerged, and in another second he had opened the rear door of the station wagon, climbed in, and promptly dropped to the floor, stretching along it in as comfortable an attitude as he could manage.

"We want to get out of here as quickly as we can," he said. "Luckily, no casual glance will ever recognize you two. If you meet anybody, pay no attention, just keep on driving until I tell you to stop. I'll explain as we go along."

"Do we go back the way we came?" I asked, and at his affirmative, sent the car swiftly along the road. As we went, Dicky talked, quickly but clearly, so that we caught every word.

"The set-up is this," he said. "When they all get to that junction on the road where Dad's extra men are ambushed, there'll be a showdown, but Harry's an old campaigner, and he and his men will get the drop on the other fellows. They won't tie them up, but they'll frisk them and put the cars out of commission temporarily, nothing drastic but effective for the time being. Then part of our gang with the box of emeralds and the impersonators of Mary and Noel will beat it to the farmhouse while old Harry, with a couple of guards, will come back here for me, and for you two."

"Then, you knew we were in here when you said you had a headache?" Lillian asked.

HEAR WALLACE PLANS TO QUIT CABINET POST

More Democratic Leaders Join Bolt to Willkie; 1938 'Purges' Backfire.

Democrat to bolt the party and join the Willkie bandwagon - much as former Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York did four years ago when he went to the extent of making a speech in behalf of Alf M. Landon, the G. O. P.'s 1936 standard bearer.

Another anti-New Deal Democrat opposing the third term is Sen. Rush D. Holt (D., W. Va.) but whether he will throw his support to Willkie is unknown. He is prepared to introduce in the senate an anti-third term resolution similar to one introduced during the latter part of the Coolidge administration.

Administration leaders conceded that Holt's resolution probably would attract unanimous support from Republicans, led by Minority Leader Charles L. McNary, the G. O. P.'s nominee for vice president as well as isolationists and conservative Democrats who have opposed administration policies.

Although they were confident the resolution would be defeated, they privately expressed fear that a close vote might dramatize opposition to a third term and keep the issue before the country to the detriment of the Democratic party's chances in November.

No law or precedent would require Wallace to resign, it was said, but it would be difficult for him to speak both as agriculture secretary and as a nominee for an elective office. Belief that Wallace would make an extensive speaking campaign was strengthened by Mr. Roosevelt's statement that world conditions will keep him close to the White House.

The biggest question mark here was Vice President John Nance Garner, whose presidential aspirations were thwarted at the Democratic convention. He steadfastly refused to disclose his political plans and made himself unavailable to newsmen who sought his views on the Roosevelt-Wallace ticket.

Willkie Denies Any Noble Motives

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo.—(AP) — Wendell L. Willkie settled back into his vacation routine today after declaring, in a brief address at Denver, he would "make no pretense of noble motives" in seeking the presidency.

"I frankly sought the opportunity to run for president on the Republican ticket because I have some deep-seated convictions I want to present to the American people and which, if I am elected, I want to carry into execution," the nominee said.

Willkie made the talk while a luncheon guest yesterday at the Denver union stockyards. He conferred informally with cattle and sheep men and visited a beet sugar plant, the federal veteran's hospital near Denver, and an 80-acre beet, melon and corn farm before flying back to Colorado Springs. He said he planned to get a "good rest over the week-end."

KILLER HAPPY IN JAIL CELL

Mother Served Sentence 20 Years Ago for Slaying of Physician.

GRONTON, Conn.—(U.P.)—Hugh B. Kenyon, 20-year-old Pawcatuck printer apprentice charged with the slaying of his sweetheart, laughed and joked with his jailers today as final rites were held for his victim, Miss Rita Wheaton, at Westerly, R. I.

His mood was in sharp contrast to that of yesterday when police granted a request that he be allowed to see the body. Then he wept beside the coffin of the girl he admitted he had bludgeoned to death Wednesday night because she refused to marry him.

During the 18-mile automobile trip to and from the funeral parlor at Westerly, Kenyon, handcuffed to Jailer Lawrence Cook, cried and expressed remorse for the crime.

"If I had Wednesday night to live over again," he told Cook, "I'd never had done it."

Today, after a sound night's sleep, he ate a hearty breakfast. He avoided talking of the slaying, or the funeral, and his guard said he "was chipper and in good spirits."

Kenyon was in the same cell in which his mother, Mrs. Mabel Kenyon, was held 20 years ago when she was arrested for the killing of a Pawcatuck physician, for which she spent nearly seven years in prison. She has visited him daily at the jail.

200 Elks Consume 150 Chickens and A Heap of Fish

More than 200 members of the Elks lodge attended the annual outing and chicken supper at Spikers Grove yesterday, and consumed 150 spring chickens and a quantity of fresh pickerel.

The men gathered at 3 p. m. and the party lasted until about midnight. The chickens and fish were fried on the grounds by William Miller and his assistants. The supper was served at 6 p. m.

During the afternoon Francis O'Brien supervised an athletic program. Winners in the horseshoe singles were Wayne Hursh, first, and City Solicitor Marion Ward, second. In the horseshoe doubles Hursh and Dwight Constance were first, and Adam Brandt and John Kolb were second.

In a baseball throwing contest, Robert Spreng took first honors and John Catlett was second.

Younger members participated in a strenuous sack race, with Earl Herrick and Gene Zediker coming in first, and Marion Ward and Charles Spreng, second.

Miller's Happy Jacks provided music and there was community singing. Cards provided recreation throughout the afternoon and evening.

O. C. McCormick was chairman of the general committee on arrangements.

CLEANER GETS SWARM OF BEES

Canton Man Handles Problem In Living Room.

CANTON—(AP)— There are no bees in Paul Foster's bonnet.

He was fearful for a few minutes, however, when a swarm of the insects came down his chimney and settled comfortably in the living room. One or two other devices failing, the situation was brought in hand with a vacuum cleaner which, reported Foster, not only picked up his unwelcome guests but left them groggy enough to be carried away.

Esther Horning Weds In Shelby Ceremony Today

SHELBY—A bride of this morning was Miss Esther Horning, daughter of Mrs. B. L. Crager and Mr. E. F. Horning of Shelby, who wedded Charles S. Peiffer, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Peiffer, of Plymouth. The ceremony took place at 8 o'clock in the Most Pure Heart of Mary Church with the Rev. Michael McFadden officiating. The church was decorated with garden flowers.

The bride wore a powder blue lace dress, street length, with white accessories and a corsage of white gardenias. Mrs. C. P. Hipp, Norwalk, who attended her, was attired in a dusty pink lace dress with white accessories, and a corsage of pink roses and blue sweetpeas. Tom Horner sang "Ave Marie" and "On This Day Oh Beautiful Mother."

The wedding breakfast was held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. After a weeks' trip to New York the young couple will return to their home at 41 Sharon street. Mr. Peiffer is employed at the Laubie Motor Sales, Shelby.

FRENCH DEFEAT BLAME LAID ON CLASS WARFARE

Internal Strife Weakened Nation Before Battle Began, Writer Says.

a confirmed royalist, and he more than half meant what he said.

That was the extreme right, six weeks before the war started . . .

One day in October, I saw my former cook walking down the grand boulevards. She and her husband were Communists. She was an interesting woman of strong character and powerful opinions. I stopped to get her slant on things.

"We might as well let the Boches come in," she said, bitterly. "We would be no worse off. We are working the ten-hour day now, at no increase in pay and there are armed guards mobile everywhere in the factory and soldiers outside it. You can't do anything. A friend of mine came in eight minutes late the other day and do you know what they did? They fired her. When she protested she was arrested.

"I'd like to shoot all the politicians and the people who are going to get fat on this war. I'd like to see their swinish heads on pikes and their bodies in the Seine. We could settle with the Boches later."

That was the extreme left, six weeks after the war had started. . .

I relate these incidents to illustrate one of the more important reasons for the paralysis which gripped France. For France was morally and physically paralyzed the way an individual under the influence of drug can be.

To me it was one of the most curious, and at the same time frightening, things I have ever seen in Europe or anywhere else. Here was a great nation, with the longest history and the proudest military traditions in Europe, watching disaster approach for seven years and doing little but weaken herself before it struck.

And even after disaster had knocked on the door, turning on all the red lights and setting off all the alarms nine months before actually crashing in, France could not shake off her lethargy and get her guard up.

Before the war started—when everybody knew it was coming—people turned their eyes from it. They seemed irritated when you tried to discuss it. And after it started there was too much dismal hoping for a miracle, too little organized national effort. You were asked everywhere, "What is America going to do?" or, "Where are the English?"

The hatred engendered between Frenchmen was not a pretty thing to see. The needed reforms introduced by the popular front became abuses. The unreasoning and bitter opposition of the right to any reform whatever led to further excesses by the leftist governments. Strikes of labor and capital alike stifled industry at a time when Germany was building thousands of planes, guns and tanks.

The nation struggled in its toils of red tape. Laws were made, but be circumvented. Corruption was almost everywhere. Even the great army, which in France traditionally held aloof from politics, became somewhat disaffected. Their warnings went unheeded. Their pleas for material came to nothing and they watched their machinery become antiquated. There were ugly complaints that political views affected promotion to high posts.

Thus when the hour of the supreme test came, France which at her best would have been in an uphill fight against a bigger foe, was disunited, filled with internecine hatred, and unprepared.

Arizona Yields Nickel Deposit Needed By U. S.

PHOENIX, Ariz.—(U.P.)— The Arizona strip, a barren wasteland across the northern end of Arizona, came to life today with discovery of a huge nickel deposit.

The rich nickel vein, struck by five prospectors in the northwest corner of the state, is 12 miles long and from 600 to 1400 feet wide. W. J. Graham, member of the Arizona mineral resources board, said it was "the largest nickel deposit in the United States.

The "strip," which runs between the Grand Canyon and the southern boundary of Utah, is an almost unpopulated area of low mountains and plateaus. The strike was made about two miles south of the old town of Littlefield, eight miles east of the Nevada line and eight miles south of the Utah line.

The United States now depends on foreign countries, chiefly Canada, for its supply of nickel, a material vital in armament construction.

VOTING UNION

Soviet Expected to Accept Three Republics.

MOSCOW—(U.P.)—Moscow newspapers reported today that the new parliament of Esthonia, Latvia and Lithuania, meeting tomorrow, are expected to vote to join the Soviet Union as separate republics. In event that the union is voted, the newspapers said, it is expected that the Russian supreme Soviet would amend the constitution to admit them, as was done in the case of the western Ukraine.

GARAGE BURNS

WILLARD — The Willard fire department was called to the Mrs. A. Landefeld property on Woodbine street at 11 a. m. Friday when a blaze was discovered in a garage. The interior of the building and household furnishing stored there were destroyed. Fire Chief L. C. Williams is investigating the report that children were playing there with matches.

Braves' Defense Collapses Against Findlay Oilers

Fans to Select All-Star Team to Tackle Hermans

All-Stars to Be Picked From Y. M. C. A. Softball Loops; Play Five-Game Series.

HEY, softball fans, you think you could pick a team in Mansfield circles that can beat the undefeated Sons of Herman?

Well, if that's the case, here's your chance to do it.

You Mansfield fans and players in the four Y. M. C. A. softball leagues—the Church, Independent, Commercial and Club—will select a team to meet the Herman outfit in a five-game series for the City championship.

The series will get under way Thursday Aug. 1, and will be played on Aug. 2, 5, 6 and 7. The All-Stars, squad, which will be sponsored by the Mansfield Wrecking company, will consist of 20 players.

The Wreckers' manager, Nick Wagner, who recently piloted the team to the championship in the Marion Golden Cup tournament, has been named to lead the All-Stars.

Votes for players on the All-Star team must be addressed to Dave LaPine in care of the Mansfield Wrecking company, 585 North Main street, no later than midnight, Saturday, July 27.

LaPine who will act as business manager of the All-Stars, and Charles Martin of The News-Journal will count the votes and the All-Star team will be announced in The News-Journal, Monday, July 29.

Fans may pick two catchers, three pitchers, two men each for each infield position, and two for the rover berth and five outfielders.

Ballots (one may be found elsewhere on this page) must be printed in pencil and typewritten.

A trophy will be presented the captain of the winning team. The All-Star captain will be named by the players who are named on the squad.

The All-Stars will face a difficult task in attempting to halt the rampaging Hermans, who are riding along on a 12-game winning streak.

Yanks Coming

Hand Tribe Third Straight; Look Like 1939's Great Team.

By BILL WHITE
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

TO BORROW a Tin Pan Alley phrase: The Yanks are coming.

Looking more and more like the club that pulverized the American league for four straight years, the Yanks sounded a note that must have been grimly familiar with yesterday's 15-6 third-straight victory over the erstwhile league-leading Cleveland Indians.

For the Yankees did it their trade-marked way—via home runs. Babe Dahlgren hit two, Buddy Rosar, who has sparked the current drive, got another along with a single, double and triple for a perfect day—and Joe Gordon got the fourth. He hit it on a three-and-nothing pitch, believe it or not.

In battering down the Indians three-in-a-row, the Yanks picked on pretty fair pitchers—Bobby Feller, Al Milnar and Al Smith—while running the Indians' losing streak to six straight.

Seven runs in the first inning did the damage yesterday and the note of glee in the Yankee dressing room was marred only by the thought that Lefty Gomez will be out for a week or ten days. He was struck on the pitching hand by a ball off Roy Weatherly's bat.

Meanwhile the Detroit Tigers tightened their hold on first place by shutting out the Boston Red Sox, 4-0, behind the seven hit hurling of Tommy Bridges. Rudy York hit a homer with one on.

Thornton Lee stopped the five-game winning streak of the amazing Washington Senators 9 to 1 with a five-hit job. The White Sox pounded Walter Masterson and Joe Krakauskas for a dozen hits. Lee allowed only one Senator to get as far as second base after the second inning and yielded only two hits in the last six frames.

Johnny Berardino's homer with one on in the ninth was the winning margin as the St. Louis Browns snapped a 14-game losing streak by beating the Athletics 9-7.

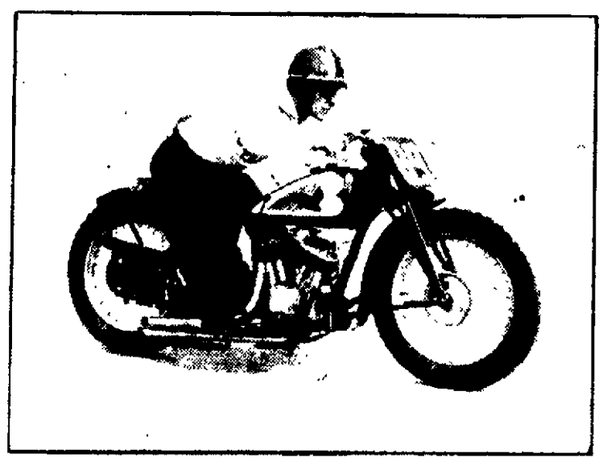
In the National league, the Cincinnati Reds remained three games ahead of the Brooklyn Dodgers since both absorbed beatings. The Reds outhit the Boston Bees, but lost 8-7 when the Bees bunched four safeties with two Cincinnati errors in the seventh inning.

The Chicago Cubs counted on Hank Lieber and Bill Nicholson for an 11-4 victory over the Dodgers. Hank homered with three on and Nicholson slammed a four-bagger with one on. The game was marred by a fistic free-for-all when Hugh Casey hit Claude Passeau with a pitched ball. Passeau tossed his bat at Casey—and the fireworks were on. Passeau and Joe Gallagher, who led the Dodger skirmishers were banished from the game.

The St. Louis Cardinals took a pair of victories from the Phils, 3-2 and 5-3, both with late inning rallies. In the first Kirby Highe allowed only one hit for six innings, but the Cards rose in the seventh and eighth to win. In the second game Johnny Rizzo's 12th homer gave the Phils a 3-2 edge in the eighth, but Ernie Koy pumped one over the fence to score behind Enos Slaughter, who had walked. Then Joe Orengo doubled and Martin Marion singled him home.

Hal Schumacher gave the New York Giants a 5 to 2 win over the Pirates. He batted in three runs with a triple, and got credit for his seventh victory though the 90 degree heat wore him down and he had to be relieved.

He'll Race at Ashland Sunday



Shown above is "Woodsie" Castonguay of Springfield, Mass., who will be among those present at the starting line tomorrow when the big Four Star Class "C" motorcycle race meet is held at Ashland county fairground tomorrow. Also in the race will be the famous "Frenchy" Castonguay, brother of "Woodsie"; Woody Kime of Mansfield; Stan Witinski, 25-mile champion, and Billy Huber from Reading, Pa., and Billy Mathews of Toronto, Canada.

Indians Try to Pick Up Loose Ends Today

BOSTON —(AP)— The Cleveland Indians tried to gather up the loose ends of their fielding today in an effort to regain lost ground as they opened a three-game series with the third-place Boston Red Sox.

Ragged fielding, along with pitching difficulties, let the tribe in for six straight losses at the hands of the upcoming New York Yankees and the Washington Senators.

The slump deprived the tribe of a chance to break even in its three eastern trips to date, having lost 17 against 13 victories. On the current swing, Cleveland has been effective only against the Philadelphia Athletics, beating them three times in a row.

His pitching aces—Bob Feller, Al Milnar and Al Smith—having been knocked off in order by the Yankees, Manager Oscar Vitt told Mel Harder, winner of two against Boston, to take the mound opposite Lefty Grove.

Smith was the Yankees' last victim. There's no defense against a home run, and New York got two in the first inning along with two triples and a double that were good for seven tallies. From there, the Yanks coasted to a 15 to 6 victory.

Smith retired one man and yielded four hits before he was taken out. New York collected nine more off Joe Dobson, Johnny Humphries and Bill Zuber. The loss was Smith's third against nine victories.

Meanwhile the Indians clubbed Lefty Gomez for six safe blows and Johnny Murphy for four more.

* * *

Hal Trosky started the tribe's scoring in the third with a home run that brought in Ben Chapman, who had walked, and Roy Weatherly, who had singled.

* * *

Lou Boudreau tripled to produce two more runs in the fourth, and the last tally was made in the ninth on Weatherly's double and two infield outs.

Schoolmasters Register Fifth Straight Softball Victory

A 10 to 6 scorching handed the Summit Freights last night at North Lake park gave the Schoolmasters their fifth straight victory in the Y. M. C. A. Club league and undisputed possession of the loop first position.

The defeat registered against the Schoolmasters by the W. B. Union was marked off the record books early this week when Don Cram, head of the softball commission, ruled that Moritz, Union hurler, was ineligible to play in the league. The Schoolmasters were given credit for the win.

Although the Freights got 15 hits to the Schoolmasters 9, the league-leaders showed the necessary power when they needed it.

Hodge, Schoolmaster rover, led the victors in the batter's box, getting a homer and a single in three times at bat. Horning, Summit Freight first-sacker, led the losers by smashing out four hits out of four trips. He got two doubles and two singles.

Scoles was on the mound for the Schoolmasters, while Walter went on the hill for the Summit Freights.

Results in the other club league games last night were W. B. Union 25, Phalanx 1; Schoolmasters 10, Summit Freight 6; and Ohio Public Service, 12, Junior Association of Commerce 7.

ALTHOUGH dropping a 2 to 1 decision to the Meder Recreation, the De Milo Salon foursome still rested one point out in front in The News-Journal Women's golf league following loop matches at Possum Run yesterday.

Golden Russells and Meder Recreations are now tied for second place, just one point behind the league-leading De Milos. Bates Candies are three points from the top position.

Thelma Linster copped low-scoring honors in the loop yesterday by chalking up a 77 for the 18 holes. Harriet Roth of the Bates Candies team finished in second place with a 94, while Louise Beal managed a 97 and Florence Adams a 98 to gain a share of the scoring laurels.

The Golden Russell foursome and the Bates Candies played a 2 to 2 tie in their match. The Meder Recreations and De Milo Salons only played three of their four scheduled matches, the remaining one having been postponed.

Suffer 12-8 Defeat

Mansfield's Six Errors Lead To Club's Setback; Play At Lima Today.

By CHARLES MARTIN

THE Mansfield Braves had a "nightmare" out at the Fairground last night.

Despite the fact that poor mound work had led to two successive defeats, the defense of the Braves crumbled as Findlay inflicted a stinging 12 to 8 defeat before some 400 spectators.

Mansfield was charged with six glaring errors—and every one of them figured in the scoring. Two of them—coming in the eighth—enabled the Oilers to score four runs and place the Ohio State league contest in the ice box.

* * *

Still working to put together a winning mound staff, the Braves trek to Lima today to clash with the league leading Pandas and will return to the Fair park to meet Findlay in a double-header Sunday. The initial game Sunday will start at 1:30 p. m. The Friendly House Knot Hole league will be guests of the Braves at the twin bill.

* * *

True, Tony Angaran wasn't up to par in handling the pitching duties, but with better defensive play the Braves might have won the game.

Here's how those bobbles figured in the scoring. With one out in the first, Angaran walked Huelsman. Then it happened. Frankie Ankenbrandt, a third baseman, who was pushed into service at second to replace Hal Hundemer, fumbled a grounder and then threw the ball past Harry Seigbert at first.

Herb Woodlen committed the other error by dropping a fly and Jackson singled two men home.

Things progressed nicely for the Braves as they punched over three runs in the seventh to knot the score at 8-all. But up came the eighth and Seigbert and Ankenbrandt made an error apiece and the game was over as far as the Braves were concerned.

There was, however, a bright side to the defeat. It was the spectacular hitting of Gene Woodling, the Braves' promising gardener.

He collected two doubles and a triple and his doubles came in the right spot, each one driving in two runs. Dick Morse shared part of the spotlight by smashing a home run over the left field wall in the sixth. It was his only hit of the evening.

* * *

Mansfield staged a thrilling battle until the eighth. The club scored three runs in the first, added a marker in the third, another on Morse's homer in the sixth and three in the seventh. Walt Missler added a double and single to the Braves' eight-hit attack.

* * *

Ankenbrandt pulled a nifty unassisted double play in the fourth. He grabbed Jackson's line drive and caught Stephenson off second.

Where Softball Teams Perform

Six Contests on Tap For Mansfielders Sunday.

Mansfield's sparkling Sons of Herman softball combination will headline Sunday's softball activities as they attempt to register their 13th consecutive victory over the Sycamore All-Stars at Liberty park.

* * *

Jimmy Fullager is expected to get Manager Frank Beeber's call for the mound duties. He will be after his eighth victory of the season.

* * *

A preliminary game featuring the Safety Cabs will be staged at 1:30 p. m. at the Liberty park. John Villella, Herman's business manager, said yesterday.

The Tinkey Lumbers and the All-State Freights will tangle in a postponed league game at 2:30 p. m. at Forest Gardens diamond. Following the Freights contest, the Tinkeys will take on the Loudonville American Legion club. "Stub" Winebrenner and McCarter will do the tossing in the two games, with "Tip" Williams behind the platter.

* * *

At the same time, the Mansfield Merchant Girls softball club will meet the highly-touted Cecil Township Girls of Lawrencetown, Pa., in a double-header at North Lake park. The first game is slated for 2:30. Frances Clark and Ruth Whiteman will toe the rubber for the Mansfielders.

* * *

Nick's Place club journeys to Galion tomorrow to take on the Thompson Service station club in a doubleheader. The Mansfield club will be trying for their seventh and eighth straight victories. Paul Appleman and Warren Grose have been selected for the mound duties. The first tilt is scheduled for 1:30 at Heise park.

DePaolo Tells of His Racing Experiences

By GEORGE SATTLER

SMILING, dark-eyed Peter DePaolo—the old "Wall Smacker", veteran of the speedways, and breaker of records recalled his racing experiences for the benefit of Mansfielders yesterday.

* * *

The little driver, who held the Indianapolis speedway record for more than seven years, spoke before some 200 guests of the Mansfield Automotive Supply company last night at the Grotto hall.

* * *

DePaolo started his career in 1920 as a mechanic for Ralph DePalma, his uncle, but it was not until 1925 that he made the greatest conquest of his racing career. He not only won the Indianapolis race that year but established a new record of 101.13 miles an hour. The mark stood until 1932 when Fred Frame roared over the finishing line to top his record.

Followers of the dirt and concrete pinned the title of "Wall Smacker" on DePaolo after he had wrecked his car five times in six starts during the first slow steps up the ladder of racing fame. The name stuck.

During the year 1925 DePaolo pocketed more than $50,000 in prize money and was riding on easy street until the crash came in 1929 and emptied his pockets.

"I'm kind of glad in a way that they took me to the cleaners," he laughed, "or I might have missed one of the greatest adventures of my career."

For it was then that the great driver, desperate for cash, took his racer and his lucky charm—a pair of baby shoes—off to Europe. He went at the invitation of Italo Balbo, the great Italian flier who recently met his death in an airplane crash.

Of Balbo he said, "He was one of the grandest fellows I met in Europe. He thought the United States was a great country and often talked of going back for a visit. Balbo was one of the few Europeans who knew and understood Americans and the American way of life."

LePaolo staged the last race of his career in Barcelonia, Spain, where he nearly met his end.

"Races in Spain," he explained, "are held in the streets and during the race I turned a corner and found myself heading straight for a group of children, playing in the street. I swerved to avoid hitting them and cracked up."

Not expected to live, DePaolo was unconscious for 11 days and blind for over five weeks. A blood clot had formed and temporarily affected the optic nerve.

Resting up in the American hospital in Paris, DePaolo decided that his racing days were ended. On returning to the United States he became associated with the Hasting Manufacturing company, a maker of automobile parts. His present title is that of a sales engineer for that company.

Walters Seeks 14th Victory Against Giants

Bees Halt Reds' Winning Streak; Cincinnati Beaten, 8-7.

CINCINNATI —(AP)— The Reds relied today on the slingshot of their ace hurler, Bucky Walters, to stop the threatening Giants, after seeing their latest victory march snapped by the Boston Bees at four games.

* * *

Gunning for his fifth consecutive triumph and 14th of the season, Walters was down to cross blows today with Bill Lohrman, who has won eight encounters while dropping only four for the Terrymen.

* * *

The Cincinnatians won three out of four games in their last brush with the Giants but Manager Bill McKechnie of the Reds was apparently taking no chances after the Bees' 8-7 free-for-all victory yesterday.

Boston tallied seven times in the seventh inning. For five rounds the game was an orderly affair. Cincinnati tagged Lefty Joe Sullivan for three runs and Junior Thompson allowed but two safeties.

The Bees got their first run in the sixth and followed in the next round with a scoring spree which made the Reds look like anything but the league leaders.

Boston filled the bases in the fatal seventh on a walk and two singles before Milburn Shoffner replaced Thompson. Catcher Ernie Lombardi juggled a throw, permitting Eddie Miller to score. Sibi Sisti walked to force in a run.

Shortstop Eddy Joost then opened the gate by heaving Buddy Hassett's grounder far beyond Lombardi's reach, allowing three more to cross the plate. Adding to the Reds troubles, Johnny Cooney tripled to score again for Boston.

Joe Beggs then took over for Cincinnati and allowed the Bees to count another run on a single before stopping the stanza.

The Reds scored three times in their half of the inning and counted another in the eighth but it was not enough.

* * *

* * *

If you have been using your line steadily for quite a while, better take time out to test its fishing end. The last few feet take plenty of punishment, and even the best of lines give up the ghost at this point after a time. To test, break it with the hands. Keep testing it until it really resists your efforts. An occasional inspection is insurance against failure when the big fish strikes.

A Beaumont, Texas woman tried to save cat meat by shooting birds with a .22 rifle. She was arrested by a game warden and fined $36. She had violated three laws at one time . . . shooting from a motor car, shooting from public road, and killing birds which were protected by state law. That $36 fine would have bought a lot of cat meat.

No one can complain of the high cost of game on the hoof when current government prices are scanned. A live half ton buffalo is priced at $60, a full grown elk at $55, while $45 will buy a mature mule deer, if the government accept your order. Last year the government offered for sale 299 buffalos, elk and deer which were surplus stock on big-game preserves administered by the Bureau of Biological Survey.

Zale Defeats Middleweight

Indiana Battler Stops Al Hostak.

SEATTLE—(AP)—A hard-punching Polish boy from the Gary, Ind., steel mills was the new owner of the National Boxing association's middleweight championship today, and he owes his newly won bauble to a kidney punch.

* * *

Tony Zale, the handsome 26-year-old blond battler, won the crown last night with a 13th round technical knockout over Al Hostak of Seattle. Tony weighed 158, Hostak 158½.

* * *

Hostak, with iron chin and brittle hands, had never been on the floor before, much less knocked out, but Zale floored him thrice not with blows to the jaw, but with deadly right-hand kidney punches which drew loud "oofs" from Hostak as they landed.

After Hostak went down helpless for the third time, Referee Benny Leonard, the former lightweight champion, heeded the towel waving of Hostak's manager, Eddie Marino, and stopped the slaughter.

STAPLE SUITS

TOKYO —(AP)— Staple fiber and other substitute goods attracted almost as much interest as opening exercises as children flocked to school grounds on the first day of the new school term here. Parents of 145,000 first year pupils in Tokyo had been asked not to buy uniforms if old ones were to be had but many beginners came in new togs despite the appeal. The outfits were estimated to cost about $10 each. Some of the less fortunate were found to be the sons of lesser officials who made an appeasement to the governmental request.

BUYING URGE IS TOO FEEBLE TO COUNT IN MART

List Leaders Generally Follow Narrow, Irregular Route; Fear Market Shock.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK -The buying urge again was too feeble to count for much in today's stock market and leading issues generally followed a narrowly irregular lower route.

Price changes, on the whole, however, were meaningless because of the continued slackness of dealings.

Brokers still blamed apathy mainly on the reluctance of speculative forces to take a decisive position pending the next major European war move. Some Wall Street observers thought Hitler might quickly put into effect his threatened smash at England if the latter refuses to make peace. Fears of a possible market shock, if the British failed to hold, it was said, kept many traders in the safety zone.

With most eyes centered on the foreign picture, domestic business and politics came in for only mild attention.

On the offside fractions to a point or so during most of the proceedings were Bethlehem, Chrysler, United Aircraft, Montgomery Ward, Eastman Kodak, Union Carbide, Loft, American Telephone, International Nickel and Pennsylvania.

Up a bit at one time or another were U. S. Steel, Goodyear, Woolworth, Du Pont, General Electric, Kennecott and Consolidated Edison.

Those watching the steels noted forecasts next week's mill operations might register a modest increase above present high levels. At Pittsburgh, though, heavy melting steel scrap was cut 50 cents a ton.

Rails refused to get going notwithstanding a favorable omen was seen in the decision of the interstate commerce commission that the burden of maintaining industrial spur tracks should be borne by shippers. This ruling, it was suggested, might add several million dollars annually to transportation income.

THEATERS

Joan Crawford at Madison.

Rachel Crothers' stage hit, "Susan and God," which enjoyed an eight-month run at the Plymouth theater, New York, has been filmized with Joan Crawford in the leading role. She plays the character of the self-centered Susan, who adopts religion as a fad only to discover she must depend on it in a time of crisis. Fredric March and Rita Quigley have important roles in the story. The co-feature is "Black Diamonds," starring Richard Arlen and Andy Devine. The films are at the Madison beginning today.

* * *

Deeply Human Drama.

"All This and Heaven Too," co-starring Bette Davis and Charles Boyer will be shown at the Ohio for the next several days. This is the screen version of the popular novel by Rachel Field. Miss Davis has the leading role as Mademoiselle Heneriette Deluzy-Desportes and gives a brilliant portrayal of her character. Rounding out the large supporting cast are Virginia Weidler, Jeffrey Lynn, Barbara O'Neil, Helen Westley and Montagu Love.

* * *

Bing Crosby Croons.

Beginning Sunday at the Park will be shown the entertaining musical show "If I Had My Way" with Gloria Jean and Bing Crosby in the leads. Eight song hits are sung by these two and the story is fast moving. The second feature attraction is "Reno" in which Richard Dix and Gail Patrick are co-starred. It is a story of the roaring mining camp days of the early 1900's. Anita Louise and Paul Cavanaugh lend their talents to the cast.

* * *

Two Screen Hits.

Showing at the Ritz Sunday and Monday is "French Without Tears," English-made film version of the stage success. It is a gay story in which a feminine huntress, Ellen Drew, is turned loose in a school where a half dozen young men are studying French to enter the diplomatic service. Ray Milland has the leading male role. The co-feature is "The Fighting 69th,' with James Cagney, Pat O'Brien and George Brent in the cast.

SCRAP HEAP

BUFFALO, N. Y. —(AP)— Two one-time "luxury" steamers of the Great Lakes are headed for the scrap heap. The Great Lakes Transit corporation has sold the Octorra and Juniata, 361-foot passenger vessels with radio-equipped staterooms, to a firm which will demolish them.

TWO KILLED

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Mrs. Frank Fox, 31, and her two-year-old daughter, Susan, were killed late yesterday in an automobile collision at South Russell, 12 miles east of Cleveland. Four others were injured, one seriously.

CITY SWELTERS IN 90 DEGREES

corn yesterday in the Chicago grain future markets.

Temperatures of over a hundred were reported in many places, with Philipsburg, Kan., hitting the ceiling with 109 degrees. Sioux City, Ia., sweltered under 104 and Omaha under 102.

One of the freaks reported by press dispatches was the finding of snow under a 90 degree temperature at Rochester, N. Y. A steam shovel bit into a cinder pile, exposing a mound of snow. Officials of the Rochester Gas and Electric company recalled they had dumped cinders last winter when the snow was a foot deep. The hard packed cinders served to insulate the snow.

There was a possibility of thunder showers tonight, but real relief from the heat is not due until Monday, according to the weather bureau. Generally fair and continued warm is forecast for this part of Ohio.

FOREST FIRE

Flames Rage Out of Control Over Idaho Range Land.

BOISE, Idaho (U.P.)— Fire today raced out of control over 18,000 miles of range land and 2,000 acres of timber north of here. Already it had caused the death of a CCC enrollee, destroyed 100 cattle and burned crops on more than 50 farms.

Riding a high wind, the flames entrapped Joseph Galluzzo, CCC member from Ohio. Earle Templeton, superintendent of the 500 fire-fighters, went back through the hot ashes to recover the body.

At least four homes were destroyed and the fire raged through Boise's new recreational center at Bogus basin.

UNDER BOND

TIFFIN—(AP)—Clarence Good, superintendent of the Seneca county infirmary, is free under $300 bond today pending grand jury investigation of an inmate's complaint he was beaten. Good pleaded innocent at a preliminary hearing yesterday.
